Communist Leader Charges
Murderers Are Sitting
Among Hitler Delegates

BERLIN, May 25.—(UP)— Many deputies were injured today in a fierce battle between Hitlerites and Communists in the Prussian Diet.

Inkwells, desks, chairs and lamps were hurled. The 163 Hitlerites eventually drove the 57 Communists from the hall.
The disorder was precipitated by the Communist deputy, Wilhelm Pieck, who shouted at the Hitler adherents, "There are many murderers sitting among you."

Enraged, the Hitlerites stormed the rostrum. The Communists then joined the fray. But the Hitler faction was the stronger and soon ejected the Communists. Then they filed back to their seats singing the Brown Shirts song.

BOURBON BALL TO AID RELIEF DRAFTED TODAY

Senator Wagner Introduces Measure With Support of Committees

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(UP)—
Senator Wagner, Democrat,
New York, today introduced a $2,000,000,000 relief bill which was drafted by a special subcommittee and which received unanimous approval of the joint Democratic steering and policy committee.

It provides for a $1,500,000,000 expansion of the borrowing power of the reconstruction finance corporation for the financing of selfliquidating construction, a $500,- 000,000 bond issue for other public works, and $300,000,000 for direct loans to states for unemployment relief.

The bill was referred to the senate banking and currency committee. Senator Long, Dem., La., asked Wagner whether President Hoover favored the bill.

"I have no idea what the attitude of the president is," Wagner replied.

Speaker Garner announced that details of his $2,100,000,000 relief program would be completed and made public tomorrow.

Wagner said the two objectives of the program were "to assist the states in preventing hunger" and
"to help in bringing about a resumption of employment and revival of trade."

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—
(UP)—Applications of Martin A.
Leach, Los Angeles, for writs of habeas corpus and prohibition to save him from a prison sentence, today were denied by the state supreme court.

Leach was convicted on 26
charges of grand theft and violation of the corporate securities act resulting from his activities in two mortgage companies at San Diego.

He was granted probation on all but one count of theft and one of violating the securities act.

DIRIGIBLE AWAITS WASHINGTON ORDERS

SUNNYVALE, Calif., May 25.—
(UP)—The navy's big airship Akron swung at her mooring mast here today, awaiting orders from navy headquarters at Washington.

She tied up at the air base at 6:14 a. m. after completing her 48 hour visit to Pacific Northwest cities.

The return trip to California, her officers said, was made without incident and in good time, a north wind aiding her most of the way.

$60,000 In Fines Paid Into Court

Henry Blackmer Also Pays
Nearly Four Million
Back Income Tax

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(UP)—
The charges of contempt of court which resulted from the failure of Henry M.
Blackmer to testify in the oil scandal cases were settled today when the self-exiled oil magnate, through his attorney, paid $60,- 000 in fines into the office of the United States marshal here.

The government compromised another phase of the case when it accepted payment of $3,669,- 784.47 for back income taxes and delinquencies owed by Blackmer.
The money was paid in cash as a compromise from the original total of $5,498,935.35 assessed by the bureau of internal revenue for taxes, penalties and interest for the years 1916-17 and 1919-23.

The attorney, George Gordon Battle, paid the fines with a certified check.

Blackmer is still in France,
where he fled rather than testify in connection with affairs of the Continental Trading Co., which figured prominently in the Teapot Dome case.

Payment of the fines is part of an effort by Blackmer to settle his financial and court troubles with the United States government, possibly looking to a return to this country. There remains large income tax assessments against Blackmer and his attorneys now are attempting to obtain a settlement of this phase of the case.

The treasury announced that compromise of financial matters with Blackmer did not include any offer of immunity in criminal cases.

"No settlement or compromise was made of Mr. Blackmer's criminal liability," the treasury said in a statement, "and it found within the jurisdiction he will be prosecuted under the indictments pending in the United States district court here."

When the contempt citations were returned against Blackmer, United States Marshal Edgar Snyder seized $100,000 worth of Blackmer's liberty bonds. They have been held in the National Savings & Trust Co. vaults here since and were released to battle upon payment of the fines.

JOHN GILBERT WILL WED, REPORTS STATE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 25.—
(UP)—John Gilbert, screen lover, was reported today to be engaged to marry Virginia Bruce, his present leading lady.

Friends said that the wedding would take place sometime after August 15, when Gilbert's divorce from Ina Claire will become final.
Gilbert's first wife was Leatrice
Joy, by whom he has a daughter.

Miss Bruce's rise as a contract player has been rapid. She will appear opposite Gilbert in "Downstairs," a story which the actor himself wrote. Miss Bruce has not been married before.

TRIPLE OPERATION ON JOE E. BROWN

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(UP)—
Joe E. Brown, film comedian whose clowning was halted by a serious illness brought on from a back injury suffered nearly 20 years ago, was reported resting well today after a triple operation in a local hospital.

His appendix and tonsils were removed and doctors also cut a small bone from his right heel in the hope of halting an infection which had spread to his leg.

The main purpose of all three operations, it was said, was to remove sources of infection believed to have aggravated the back injury over a long period.

LOS ANGELES ALL WROUGHT UP OVER SPEAKEASIES AS MAYOR ASSAILS SNOOPERS

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—
(UP)—Los Angeles was wrought up today over the speakeasy situation in relation to the Olympic Games, following what Chief of Police R. E. Steckel termed the interference of a "self-appointed committee of meddlers" with the work of the city's vice squad.

Mayor John C. Porter, nationally known dry, was equally vehement in an attack upon the work of the committee and the report Los Angeles was "wide open."

Residents and politicians were divided in their opinions, according to their views of Mayor Porter and wet or dry leanings.

Bootleggers, and even Mayor Porter admitted there are a few, were disturbed. Seventeen of them were new arrivals in jail.

There were those, like Chief Steckel, who feared notoriety would make dry visitors a bit reluctant to accept the city's hospitality during the Olympics. Others thought thirsty visitors might fear the drought.

Chief Steckel and Mayor Porter promised an immediate investigation after details of a personally conducted tour of Los Angeles speakeasies had been revealed. They obtained from the committee of investigators the names of four places. Two of them, officers said, already had been closed, others under investigation.

was understood she would be a

She said she had "nothing else important" on schedule for the remainder of her stay here.

She abandoned the idea of going to Rome to attend the transoceanic fliers congress. She will have luncheon at the Royal Aero club Thursday and dinner with the Royal Aeronautical society.

WOMAN LEADS GANG IN MANY HOLDUPS

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(UP)—
Using three stolen automobiles, two holdup men led by a blonde
"bandit queen" perpetrated a series of robberies early today and escaped with more than $200 taken from their victims.

Miss Doris Ludlum, a pedestrian, was robbed of $5. The group next robbed John Genevaugh of $9, and swooped to another part of the city to take $25 from William Baker, cafe manager.

Their fourth robbery netted them $179 from a soda fountain.
In each case, the victims told police, the blonde girl, who appeared to be their leader, remained in the automobile while the men leaped out to commit the robberies. Cars abandoned by the robbers were found after each holdup.

LINDBERGH NOT TO TESTIFY IN CURTIS TRIAL

Misdemeanor Charges to Go to Hunterdon Grand Jury Thursday

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 25.—
(UP)—The misdemeanor charge against John Hughes Curtis, confessed Lindbergh kidnaping fa-ker, will go to the Hunterdon grand jury Thursday, Prosecutor A. W.
Hauck announced today.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, victimized by the Curtis story that he was negotiating with kidnappers for the safe return of his baby boy, does not intend to testify against Curtis, it was said. He may be called as a defense witness.

Meanwhile, the hunt for the actual kidnappers and killers has failed to produce any conclusive evidence announced by police, although the Bronx grand jury investigation of Jafis's $50,000 payment to purported kidnappers is continuing.

The Bronx jury was recessed until June 2 after hearing several witnesses, among them Morris Rosner, underworld go-between employed by Lindbergh. It plans to

MAIL PLANE CALLS FOR HELP AT SEA

BOSTON, May 25.—(UP)—Two German airmen, attempting a ship to shore flight from the liner Europa to Boston with mail, broadcast an SOS today from a point about 450 nautical miles east of Nantucket.

What had happened to their Junkers low wing monoplane, which was equipped with pontoons, was not disclosed in the curt call for aid received by radio at Boston airport.
Local aviators believed the plane had been forced down.

Occupants of the plane were Joachim Blankenburg and radio operator Kirchhoff.

Greatest hope for the rescue of the fliers lay in the possibility they might be picked up by the Europa, coast guard officials felt, assuming the plane was in the steamship lanes when the trouble was encountered.

Bonus Army Planning To Steal Train

Four Hundred Veterans
Arrive in Indiana and Joined By Leader

WASHINGTON, Ind., May 25.—
(UP)—A serious conflict between special deputies of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and 400 World war veterans intent upon seizing a freight train to continue their bonus protest journey to Washington, D. C., impended today.

The veterans arrived early today in trucks and motor cars furnished by East St. Louis, Ill., merchants. They encamped immediately along the railroad right of way.

Tired from the long trip, they posted sentinels about the camp and lay down for a few hours rest before launching their announced plan of "capturing" a train.

Equally determined to prevent the "capture," the railroad massed 70 special police and detectives to guard the freight yards. The deputies under command of Captain William Walman said their orders were to prevent the men from boarding a train at any cost.

Vice President C. W. Galloway of the Baltimore & Ohio was here to protect the railroad's interest in the pending "war."

"We will not allow our property to be confiscated," Galloway said.
"The railroad will not stand by idly and allow these men to board its freight trains."

Police Neutral
Local police were neutral in the conflict. City officials greeted the veterans and said they sympathized with the purpose of the crusade.
Citizens and local American Legion posts were prepared to feed the men during their stay here.

Indiana state police who escorted the party from the Illinois line said their only instructions were to see that the veterans arrived here without disorder.

The men, crowded in 7 trucks and 15 automobiles provided by East St.
Louis, Ill., merchants, made light of the reported intent of police and railroad detectives to prevent the army from "capturing" another freight train here.

"Capture" of a train loaded with perishable freight at Caseyville, Ill., resulted in mobilization of six companies of militia but no violence occurred, Sheriff Jerome Munie requested that the guardsmen be supplied truck transportation upon release of the freight train.

FORD MOTORS LOSE HUGE SUM IN 1931

BOSTON, May 25.—(UP)—A loss of approximately $53,486,000 for 1931, after dividends, if any, was indicated for the Ford Motor Co., by a balance sheet comparison today.

This compares with profit of $44,- 460,823 for 1930.

In 1929 there was a profit of $81,- 797,361.

The figures offering the public a rare glimpse into the financial affairs of the great Ford industry, were revealed in the certificate of condition which is filed annually with Henry F. Long, state commissioner of corporations and taxation.

The profit and loss account as of Dec. 31, 1931, totaled $664,427,424 at the end of 1929; $482,629,562 at the end of 1930; and $654,851,961 at the end of 1931.

JOHN N. GARNER WINS 46 SEATS IN HOME STATE

Democratic Convention in Resolution Urges National Referendum

HOUSTON, Tex., May 25.—(UP)— Texans today scanned the records of the Democratic state convention and found inscribed therein:

A resolution urging a nationwide popular referendum on prohibition repeal.

Directions to the 46 Lone Star delegates to the national convention to support Speaker John N.
Garner for the Presidential nomination until they are released by him.

A broken table, smashed by Rep. Sam Rayburn, the keynote, as he pounded for order during a riotous affray over the prohibition issue.

An original viva voce vote of "aye" on the wet referendum, a demand by the dries for a roll call, and an 861 to 654 vote approving the vocal approval.

Police intervention to restore order when delegates began milling around the rostrum before the prohibition vote.

That, in brief, is the record of the convention which ended with a political storm late last night.
The referendum vote gave victory to the liberal and wet elements, a victory they had predicted ever since several major county conventions adopted very moist platform planks. It was a defeat for the Garner campaign backers, who have pleaded for silence on prohibition in the state convention.

The Garner clique had succeeded in defeating a wet resolution in committee, a wet candidate for national committeeman and a wet candidate for keynote.

By a "thundering" "aye" went up when the resolution was taken to the floor.

Other resolutions favored an oil tariff sufficiently high to exclude foreign competition, cessation of immigration until the employment problem has been solved and payment of war debts.

Prohibition was not mentioned.

VERBAL TILT CALLS FORTH WILD CHEERS

Dapper New York Mayor on Stand Defends Actions
in Granting Franchise

DUEL GETS BITTER

More Than 600 Persons in Attendance at Hearing
Started This Morning

NEW YORK, May 25.—(UP)—
In a bedlam of applause, cat calls and hisses, Mayor James J. Walker today verbally with Samuel Seabury fought when he appeared before the Hofstadter legislative committee, investigating city affairs.

The 600 persons who had crowded into a courtroom whose accommodations called for only 335, were given the show they had expected when the glib tongued mayor faced the suave, quiet spoken prosecutor. Walker alternately defied, sneered and child-ed the gray haired Seabury, while the crowd made noisy demonstration—some cheering and many hissing.

The Equitable Coach company petition for a franchise to operate the city's transportation system was the subject around which Walker and Seabury fenced. Walker admitted proposing the petition for adoption and voting for it but called attention to his campaign pledge of a "five cent fare" to justify his action. Seabury had brought out the franchise issue first in an attempt to strengthen the structure he has built up in a year of investigation, showing alleged financial deals connecting the mayor about the time the Equitable sought the franchise.

The duel got bitter and the noise made noisier demonstration—some cheering and many hissing.

The mayor was debonair when he entered the court room, dressed in a blue ensemble.

"Well, Judge, here we are," he remarked.

And then the questioning started. It proceeded almost casually until the mayor challenged the statement that an investigation had been made of the financial backing of the Equitable company.

"I don't care whether you believe it or not, it is in the record," Seabury remarked.

"I know you don't care what I believe, and that goes double,"
Walker retorted.

Tension increased as Seabury attempted to get Mayor Walker to admit stating to Senator John Hastings—a Democratic friend, who made $135,000 in various positions which the committee has implied had political significance —that Walker would back the Equitable franchise if Hastings had no stock interest in Equitable.

"You're simply making political speeches, Mr. Mayor," Seabury remarked. In the course of the interchange.

"Well, they're 'pretty good,'"
Walker retorted. "Did you ever list-

MINERAL WELLS, Tex., May

assured the unanimous vote

RAILROADS TO OPPOSE BONUS ARMY SEIZURE

The ambition to reach Washington, D. C., was paralleled by insistence in the ranks of making the trip over the Baltimore & Ohio.

Refuse Trucks

Members of the Washington post of the American Legion offered to try to obtain motor transportation, but the crusaders would have none of it.

"We'll take a train and hold it if we can," declared W. W. Walters, "commander" of the army, who rejoined his men early today.

Captain William Walman, in charge of a division of the uniformed railroad special agents, outlined the Baltimore & Ohio's strategy.

He revealed that some of his men were patrolling the railroad's freight yards, only a quarter of a mile from the veterans' camp, and having non-employees.

"We'll mark time until the men try to stop or board a train," he said. "Then we'll get a federal injunction against interference with interstate traffic, have our agents sworn as deputy United States marshals, and proceed with the authority of the government."

Posting of men in the railroad yards was designed to frustrate the army's "espionage division"—men in railroad working clothes who have been mingling with railroad employees to obtain information.

The division had been highly successful in East St. Louis, its members were not discouraged, though they admitted the railroad's strategy would make matters difficult.

OFF OF GOLD

SAN FRANCISCO—Bernard Goldfish, brother of Samuel Goldwyn, movie magnate, went off the gold standard like his brother. The court changed his name to just plain "Fish."

$171,000 INSURANCE AWARDED BY BOARD

Renewal of fire insurance on school property was authorized last night by the Santa Ana board of education. George Newcom, business manager for the board notified that organization that policies totaling $171,000 are expiring this year. Because of depreciation the renewals will total $171,000.

The insurance was divided between Santa Ana agents as follows: Mock-Harrison, $20,000; Parke-Roper, $12,500; Edward Holmes, $5,000; Lydia Fisher, $25,000; R. G. Cartwright, $15,000; F. D. Drake, $18,500; C. E. Dessery, $15,000; J. G. Sutherland, $26,000; Charles Morgan, $5,000; and H. M. Secrest, $26,000.

MAN SHOT BY COPS OFFERS GUILTY PLEA

Declaring that he did not want an attorney, Raymond Brenner who was shot by Police Officer A. L. Steward on the night of May 4 while holding up Victor Fosburg, night man at Becker's garage, pleaded guilty in superior court today to a charge of first degree robbery and asked immediate pronouncement of judgment. He was ordered confined in San Quentin, by Superior Judge James L. Allen, for the term prescribed by law.

Because he used a gun in the holdup Brenner faces a term of from five years to life in penitentiary and is not eligible to probation.

Brenner had held up Fosburg and secured $10.25 from him when Steward entered the garage to take headquarters. Brenner drew a revolver on the officer and Steward fired, the bullet striking Brenner in the face.

en to any of them? I heard yours at Cincinnati and it wasn't so hot."

He referred to a speech Seabury made in the Ohio city urging reform in city government.

As the cheers for Walker's remarks continued, Seabury remarked that the mayor had "an appreciative audience."

"I don't have to come here for an appreciative audience," Walker replied.

Seabury continued to insist on the answer regarding the statement to Hastings and Walker made a lengthy reply regarding propaganda in the press. He said he had made an effort to find out whether the General Electric company was interested in the franchise and had summoned Owen D. Young to confer with him. He was not certain of the date and was asked whether it was before the franchise.

"After the franchise, which the propagandists were trying to destroy," Walker replied.

"I will mind," Walker retorted. "This is only an annex to it, in my opinion, and at that time you were appearing for the traction interests."

"No, that is false," Seabury replied. "And you know it. You know you cannot draw a red herring like that over it."

"And you have not heard the last of it," the mayor said. "There are a couple of lawsuits that will familiarize you with it and your participation."

"All right we will come to the attacks upon me later," Seabury said. There was no explanation of the suits.

JEWELRY STOLEN IN BURGLARY IN S. A.

Burglars stole jewelry and clothing valued at $161.75 from the home of Ruby Jones, at 202 North Parton street last night while the house was unoccupied, according to a report filed with the city police.

The thieves entered through the front door, apparently using a pass key, according to a report made after an investigation. The place was ransacked.

Among articles reported missing were: a sapphire ring worth $20; white gold ring with set, $5; gold watch, worth $85; $20 in cash; a black dress worth $16.50 and a dressing gown worth $5, it was reported.

Then, just to be sure there wasn't a speakeasy on every corner, as the committee inferred, they sent the vice squad out last night. The citizens' committee claimed to have visited six places where liquor was sold. The vice squad found an even dozen, and arrested 17 persons.

They lodged the prisoners in jail under charges of violating the Wright Act, state enforcement law, and reiterated their disbelief Los Angeles was "wide open."

"I don't think that anyone denies that liquor is being sold in Los Angeles," Mayor Porter said. "But I know that Chief Steckel is doing all within his power to enforce the laws and keep the police department free from graft and corruption. If there is any police protection going on, I would like to know about it."

Chief Steckel was even more indignant. It was he who considered the fair name of Los Angeles in relation to its position as Olympics host, and blamed "politicians."

"The report of this committee was inspired by a retired police captain, an officer who has been removed from the force, and other persons with personal axes to grind," he said.

"Reports, such as this committee circulated, that vice is running wide open, greatly hurt the city. We are inviting the world here for our Olympic Games and a group of snoopers such as this takes it upon itself to warn the world that speakeasies are on every corner. It would be all right, perhaps, if it were true, but it is decidedly false."

The committee, self-appointed and entirely unofficial, consisted of Mrs. Allie Simmons Wheeler, active in the W. C. T. U.; Edgar Dudley and his wife, Mrs. Mildred Rohback Dudley, Anthony Pratt, secretary of the Municipal league which is vigorously opposed to Mayor Porter, and a William Schneider, erstwhile member of the Civil Service commission.

The tangible result of the committee's tour was the turning over to authorities the addresses of four asserted speakeasies and the revelation that Dudley, former district attorney's investigator and guide of the party, was a first class, two-fisted drinking man in the cause of temperance. "No one but me drank the liquor they served," said Dudley. "Pratt and Schneider just tasted the liquor to make sure it was alcoholic. And then, when the bartender turned his back, I drank all the drinks on the table."

The committee insisted that six speakeasies had been visited. At each of these, Dudley had to drink five drinks, according to his story.

The "tour" cost $40, according to the committee. "They did pretty well," said Capt. D. MacD. Jones, head of the vice squad. "You can't buy publicity with that chicken feed—but they did."

Capt. Jones knows whereof he speaks. It cost him a $200 fine for contempt of court to achieve nationwide publicity at the two time raid of Lysistrata, Greek farce, and the secker on indecency charges of Aristophanes, its author.

bergh took a machine gun with him on the final cruise with Curtis in search of a phantom ship because he feared an attempt might be made to kidnap him. The gun was borrowed from the state police.

Reports that Dr. Condon had selected a rogues' gallery picture as that of the man who took $50,000, were confirmed in the state police bulletin today. The picture was that of one John Swenson. This man, according to the bulletin, was investigated and found to have no "possible connection" with this case.

The communique told of the detention of Gilbert McCann of Mount Rose, N. J., who also was found to have no connection with the case. He was turned over to federal narcotic agents when state troopers found a quantity of heroin in his possession.

INGLEWOOD—Patrons at an American Legion dinner and dance here were served half a fried chicken for the modest sum of five cents.

COOPERATION ASKED TO SOLVE WATER NEEDS

Various business matters were discussed, including reports from several committees, at the regular monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county held last night in Yonka Linda.

Judge J. F. Coburn of Orange, chairman of the water conservation committee, appealed to members of the organization and to all citizens of the county for cooperation and assistance in meeting the water problems of the county during the coming year. "We have plenty of water for this year," he said, "because of the fine rains and heavy snows in the mountains and I consider this especially good luck. We must save all possible water." The water committee will meet June 15 in Costa Mesa. It was announced.

President Ross A. Shafer supplemented the water report by stating that the board of supervisors desires to place the matter of a bond issue for conservation of water in the county before the public but fears to do so because members believe it would meet with defeat because of the large amount of money involved and the present economic conditions.

A meeting at La Vida Springs on June 17 to dedicate the Carbon canyon road was announced. L. Governor Frank Merriam will speak and Joe Burke will be toastmaster at the dedication ceremonies.

A letter from interested persons in San Diego county asking the body to join in a motorcade over the route of the proposed Allison plan water aqueduct was ordered tabled after it had been read. The body is not interested in the Allison plan because of the fact that cities in the area have joined the Metropolitan Water District, members stated.

George McLeod of Newport Beach asked support of the chambers of commerce in the tournament of lights to be held in the Newport bay on July 16.

A letter was read from the Orange County Builders' Exchange urging the adoption of a resolution read at the meeting a month ago which urged the operation of all cities in the county as a unit and one trade center and recommending that all public bodies be requested to keep whatever work, material and labor in the county and stating that no section of the county can be divided against each other and still progress. The matter was referred to the advisory committee to report back. The resolution was not adopted.

Harold E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, reported for the agricultural committee. He declared that the walnut outlook for the next season was exceptionally good, in fact, better than for 15 years past. The employment situation is helped, he said, because of the work started in the Valencia orange industry in the county.

An attempt will be made by the group in the near future to stage a display day in the county for all manufacturing concerns. Tentative plans call for a county-wide exhibit of all products manufactured in the county.

TENURE CASE AGAIN COMES BEFORE BOARD

Action in the case of Miss Bertha Briney, who is fighting dismissal as a teacher in the Frances Willard Junior High school, was again delayed last night by the board of education. Miss Briney was one of the group dropped in an effort to reduce expenses.

Deputy District Attorney William F. Menton had been asked for a ruling on whether or not Miss Briney had established permanent tenure in the junior high school when she indicated her intention to resist dismissal on the grounds that she had established her status as a permanent teacher and could not be dismissed without cause.

The school board held that because she did not teach for three years after establishing her status it was lost.

Menton's first ruling, given May 10, held that her tenure had been established and she could not be dismissed. Dr. Percy Davis, retiring superintendent of schools, asked Menton to reconsider this ruling in the light of certain facts which he presented two weeks ago, a few hours before the board was scheduled to consider Menton's decision and requested a delay. This new decision was read last night upholding the previous ruling.

Davis asked the board to again delay action last night while the matter was taken up with the Los Angeles county counsel for advice on the grounds that attorneys in that office were well versed in school affairs. He based his request on a ruling in the case of Miss Lois Gould in which the deputy district attorney had declared that in spite of the fact that she taught in both elementary and junior high schools, she had not established a permanent status in the junior high school district. Miss Gould was dropped from the teaching staff when music instruction was abandoned in the elementary schools.

Attorney Charles Swanner, representing Miss Briney at the board meeting opposed further delay in the board's action on the grounds that the action was taken in an attempt to secure a decision that would uphold the board's action dismissing Miss Briney.

He called the board's attention to the fact that two weeks ago Menton had his decision prepared and that late in the afternoon of the day it was to be presented to the board Davis had asked reconsideration because of certain facts that had not been given the deputy district attorney at the time his opinion was first requested.

Other members of the board declared they were not satisfied with Menton's ruling in the case of Miss Gould and Miss Briney, pointing out that if Miss Gould could not be dismissed because of the difference between elementary and junior high schools that prevented her establishing tenure in the junior high school, Miss Briney, having taught in both districts, could not have established tenure.

The official decision of the board was to ask Deputy District Attorney Menton for a new ruling, recalling his decisions in the cases of Miss Gould and Miss Briney, and to hold a special meeting next Tuesday night to act on the report. Unofficially it was agreed that the matter would be taken before the Los Angeles county counsel for an additional ruling.

In the case of Miss Gould the opinion by Menton was that she had been employed in the city schools since 1927 as a teacher in the elementary district. A portion of her time had been served in the junior high school districts but all salary warrants had been drawn from the elementary district fund, and she could be dropped when the subjects she was teaching were dropped from the elementary course.

In his opinion in the Briney case, given by Menton May 10, he pointed out that she had taught continuously from 1922 to 1926 establishing her tenure. She was granted a leave of absence in 1926 and returned to the school when she returned she was told that there was no assignment for her and asked to wait another year. In 1928 she was employed by the board in secretarial and clerical work and part time teaching. In 1929 she was employed as a full time teacher and has retained that status until the present time.

Legal Opinion Menton pointed out that "Miss Briney was at all times ready and willing to assume teaching duties having acquired permanent status, but there was no assignment. This permanent status can be terminated only by resignation or dismissal."

In the later ruling upholding his first decision Menton pointed out "for the first two years of her service Miss Briney was employed in what was then designated as elementary schools and her salary warrants were drawn from the elementary fund. Starting with the school year 1924 and continuing to and including the close of the school year 1925-26 the warrants were drawn from the junior high school fund."

"I find no change in conditions of employment, no transfer from one school to another and not even a change made in the grades taught except the addition thereto of one year of the high school course."

"By the organization of what is known as this high school district the change in the status of the school was more or less fictitious and was more in nature of a change of designation of the school than a change in the conditions of employment and does not impair her status."

A brother of Miss Briney, who is an attorney in San Pedro, pointed out to the board that where a teacher is told that she is employed in the Junior high school it would appear that an advantage had been taken when, after two years, she is told that her contract had been changed and that she had lost her status.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor, will deliver the memorial address.

On Monday, May 30, the Spanish War veterans will unite with the American Legion in their memorial services at Fairhaven cemetery at 8:45 a. m., following which service they will join with the Grand Army in their services at Soldiers' monument, furnishing, as is their custom, the firing squad and bugler for that occasion.

All Spanish war veterans are cordially invited to join with the local camp on all of these occasions.

The graves of departed comrades in all of the cemeteries throughout the county will be decorated with flags and floral offerings.

SAN CLEMENTE ASKS SHARE OF GAS TAX FUND

A letter signed by George Scherck of the San Clemente Chamber of Commerce and written on behalf of that organization petitioning the board of supervisors to allot certain portions of the gasoline tax money received by the county and asking inclusion of the state beach park in the county party system was received by the board of supervisors yesterday.

The letter declared that at a recent meeting of the Spanish Village Chamber of Commerce directors, action was taken to secure a certain portion of the gasoline tax money as the Chamber of Commerce directors feel that the village is entitled to a just share of this money.

The directors are of the opinion, Scherck's letter said, that with this money it would be possible to continue improvement of the $400,000 State Beach park.

The letter declared that the Spanish Village has not received its just share of the gas tax money in comparison to assessed valuation in the city and the amount of gasoline purchased there.

The directors of the San Clemente Chamber of Commerce also are of the opinion that the board of supervisors should include the State Beach park in the county park system and should allot money annually for care of the park. No action was taken on the request by the board.

FILIPINO LABOR QUESTION AGAIN BEFORE BOARD

The Filipino question was again brought before the board of supervisors yesterday by Reeves Aylmore who reported results of an investigation of reports that Filipinos are working in citrus groves in the county.

He reported that the Placentia Mutual packing house is employing 25 Filipinos in groves. The foreman who employed them is Placido Verno. The Fullerton Mutual, according to the report, also is employing 25 Filipinos under Antonio Estrella as foreman.

In his report Aylmore said that the Anaheim Citrus association and the Villa Park Orange association at El Modena is not employing Mexicans from outside. Aylmore said that the Filipino situation is daily growing more serious because of petitions being circulated to drive them out of the county. This agitation is making it impossible for the Filipinos to get employment and there is a possibility of trouble arising in the Mexican colony on West Fifth street where the Filipinos are living.

SAYS REPEAL WOULDN'T AID U. S. FARMERS

In connection with the arguments presented by wets of the country that agriculture would be benefited by repeal of the 18th amendment, M. S. Winder, national executive secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation, in a private interview with a representative of The Register while he was in Santa Ana yesterday in connection with the tour of the national directors through the state, declared that "the American Farm Bureau is not prepared to admit that a prohibition referendum or repeal would be of any aid to farmers."

"We do not deal with political problems," he said, "and the problem is not essentially an agricultural problem."

While in Santa Ana, Winder received a telegram from E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation which urged him to ask farm bureaus throughout the state to telegraph representatives in Congress urging immediate passage of the Goldsborough bill to restore commodity prices to 1926 levels.

"Being the authors of the bill," Winder declared, "we are exceedingly anxious for its immediate enactment. Commodity price levels are affected by the fluctuating amount of available gold. Money should not control commodity price. Price level should determine the value of the dollar. We uphold the stabilization of commodity values."

"Those who incurred indebtedness when prices of commodities were high compared with the value of gold, now are faced with the terrible burden of trying to redeem their debts when values are all out of proportion. The Goldsborough bill gives the mandate to the Federal Reserve board to use such measures as possible to stabilize prices on the level of the year 1926. This would accomplish stabilization and set up a proper relationship between the value of gold and prices."

"We have another bill before Congress to eliminate short selling on the grain and cotton exchanges which would place in the hands of the secretary of agriculture power to regulate and suspend all short selling policies to curb the speculator, who now forces prices down for his benefit."

"We also seek an amendment to the agricultural marketing act to include the equalization fee plan, contending that this would give agriculture equality with business, industry and other groups. Provision is also made to enable the surplus agricultural products to be taken care of."

Unemployed Group Feed 2500 Weekly

GIVE BENEFIT SHOW AT H. S. HERE TONIGHT

Figures for the past three weeks from the records of the Santa Ana Unemployed association indicate that a total of 1500 people have been fed through the commissary of the Unemployment association in that period, the peak being reached during the week ended last Saturday during which 866 families were fed, or a total of 2666 individuals, by actual count.

This shows an average of 2500 persons fed each week. The association in order to carry on its work is devising various plans, some of which are along the lines of entertainment, to raise funds to purchase staples which cannot be obtained by donation. The first of these will take place tonight at the high school auditorium, when the players of the Little Theater Guild of Orange county will present a benefit performance of the three-act farce, "Speeders." Tickets are selling at only 25 cents and a can of food.

The association is planning a baseball game which probably will be played next Sunday afternoon at the Martin airport, between a team from Orange and that representing the Unemployment association of Santa Ana, led by Captain R. J. (Dick) Rogers. Support of these various enterprises helps to feed the needy unemployed, and not one cent of monetary compensation goes to anyone.

TAXATION AND PROHIBITION LEADING ISSUES

By HOMER ROBERTS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 25.—(UP)—Prohibition and taxation, the two burning questions of the hour, will dominate California's primary and general elections this fall.

The wet and dry issue will affect chiefly the contests for United States senate and house of representatives. Taxation will be a leading issue in legislative races. Further complications in the fight for United States senate were injected when the incumbent, Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, announced that he favored resubmission of the Eighteenth amendment to a vote of the people.

Later, in a senate session, he voted "no" on the Bingham amendment, for 4 per cent beer, and "yes" on the Tydings amendment legalizing 2.75 per cent beer for the purpose of taxing it at 3 cents a pint.

Shortridge's stand on the liquor referendum was believed taken because of the fact that two challengers to his seat in the senate, Senator Tallant Tubbs and Leo V. Youngworth, are both campaigning on wet platforms.

Salaries California state salaries, from the four $10,000-a-year jobs on down, are to be carefully scrutinized by the state legislature at its session next January.

In fact, it wouldn't be surprising if a demand were made upon the lawmakers themselves to take a cut in the $100-a-month salaries they draw the year 'round, whether the legislature is in session or not, it is reported.

Some states pay their legislators only $3 a day during the sessions, plus traveling expenses, it was pointed out.

"The state legislature should clean house and eliminate all extravagances and unnecessary expenditures," Roland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance, declared in a recent statement.

Gossip Political gossip: If Governor Rolph waits until June to decide on a special session of the legislature, it will never be called.... That would allow less than four months for a campaign to put it across, which isn't enough.... Leon Whitesell and Fred G. Stevenson go out of office in the state railroad commission at the end of this year.... Governor Rolph has promised one of the position to Wallace Ware of Santa Rosa.... John E. McCall, Rolph leader and Redding merchant, is a candidate for state senate.... And State Senator J. M. Allen of Yreka is going to run for superior judge in Siskiyou county.... As his senate term doesn't expire until 1934, he has nothing to lose.

The Public Forum

Editor, Register:

As I am vitally interested in the success of the dairy farmer, I would be glad if you will publish this short article in the Open Forum of the Register. I met a brother farmer today who is selling milk to one of the largest distributors of milk in Santa Ana, and I asked him what he was getting for milk now, and he said his milk, and the milk of all the Milk Producers' association, was selling for 29.1-2 cents per pound for butter fat, as they all sell the milk on a butter fat content basis.

So I thought I would figure it out on a quart basis and see what they get a quart. Here is the problem. I understand the state law requires that legal milk shall contain three and eight-tenths pounds butter fat to the 100 pounds of milk. Then for 100 pounds of milk, or 48 quarts, the number of quarts in 100 pounds of milk, or 29.1-2 times 31.2 equals $1.121, what is received for 48 quarts of milk, or 2.33 cents a quart. If I figure the per cent of cost as to price of sale of milk, viz. 10 cents a quart, it is 237 per cent and very much more at 14 cents a quart, when sold in pint bottles. Much more could be said, but isn't this enough?

EXPECT LARGE CROWD TO HEAR NOTED LEADER

Tomorrow evening brings the anticipated lecture by the Hon. William G. McAdoo, who is giving the time from his busy life to come to Santa Ana and deliver a lecture at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium for the benefit of the Y.M.C.A. of this city.

Many tickets have been sold and many more are available, according to those in charge.

Tickets may be purchased from a number of downtown stores, the banks, and individual members of the Y.M.C.A., or at the Y.M.C.A. building. Tickets will also be on sale at the door Thursday evening, and there will be plenty of good seats for all who attend.

The program will open at 8 o'clock, with several musical selections, to be followed at once by the talk by the distinguished guest.

Mr. McAdoo is known to have three principal hobbies, and it is likely that his talk on the subject, "Personal Recollections of Wilson During the World War," reminiscent as it may be, will dwell on one or the other of these themes. He is an enthusiastic advocate of world peace, and will no doubt have something to say about disarmament and other peace measures. He has been a lifelong advocate of temperance, and a supporter of the movement to eliminate the liquor traffic, and it is expected that he will express himself on that subject, particularly in view of certain statements which have recently been attributed to him, and which appear not to have been authentic. He is also keenly alive to the vital importance of good business practice in governmental affairs, and any recollections of his wartime service in Washington will probably bring to mind some of the financial principles which he then used in his work.

"The unique place which Mr. McAdoo has occupied in the history of the United States, his colorful life of achievement, and his genial personality add to the attractiveness of what he may have to say," said R. C. Smedley, Y secretary today.

In addition, there is the consideration of giving support to the local Y.M.C.A., which is having a hard struggle to keep its work going in these days of reduced income and increased demands for service. Every dollar received for the lecture tomorrow night will go to the Y.M.C.A. to help meet its urgent needs.

Resignations of two teachers in the elementary school district were accepted last night by the Santa Ana board of education. Miss Lois Winslow, physical education teacher for the Wilson and Jefferson schools, tendered her resignation and thanked the board for cooperation during her service here.

Miss Elizabeth Hoy tendered her resignation and asked that the board rescind its recent action in dropping her from the teacher list. Davis said that he had agreed to this sometime ago as Miss Hoy had planned not to engage in teaching next year.

ESCAPES DEATH WHEN FLAMES DESTROY HOME

William C. Neill had a narrow escape from death at an early hour this morning, when the house he occupies at 446 Diamond street, Arch Beach, was badly gutted by fire. The building was a mass of flames when neighbors aroused him from a deep sleep, but he was able to fight his way through the smoke to the front door and open it before he was overcome. Mrs. Neill, the Baroness Frederick, a near relative of the famous Ganna Walska, is visiting in the east. Fire Chief P. J. Bushman said that $2000 would cover the total damage to building, furnishings and automobile.

The fire is believed to have started in the garage from Mr. Neill's automobile. He drove home about 11 o'clock last night and the fire was discovered about 2 o'clock this morning by Mrs. D. L. O'Sullivan, of New York, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Charles P. Reiner, at the movie director's beautiful estate near by.

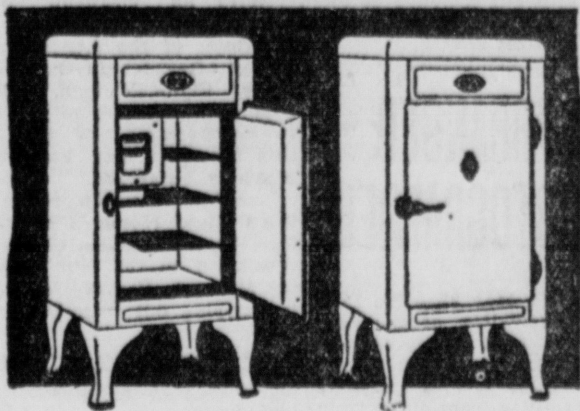

Mrs. Theodosia Ingham, who had just moved into her new home next door, Major F. N. Cosby, and other neighbors were aroused by the noise of the flames. Realizing that Mr. Neill was asleep in the burning house, Mrs. Ingham, the first to arrive, pounded on the door but could get no response. When other neighbors arrived, they finally succeeded in arousing the sleeping man.

The building is owned by Miss Elsie Buchanan and Miss E. Merritt, school teachers of Hemet.

Mrs. Eleanor Haid and Miss Opha Coulson were co-hostesses to a group of friends assembled in the home of the former at Costa Mesa. Tables were arranged for bridge which occupied the hours of the evening. When the attractive score cards were tallied it was revealed Miss Skiles held high and Miss Ruth Coate low. Appropriate prizes were awarded. The honoree was presented with numerous gifts for her new home soon to be established.

Dainty refreshments were served at a beautifully decorated table spread with yellow linen and set in black fosteria ware. A low bowl of pink roses formed the center piece.

Sharing this pleasure with Miss Skiles were Mrs. Charlotte Lingo, Miss Jane Cunningham, Miss Mary Hasenjaeger, Mrs. Louise Barnett, Mrs. Orpha Beitzell, Miss Helen Hamilton, Mrs. Ruth Coate, Miss Iva Van Deusen and the hostesses, Mrs. Haid and Miss Coulson.

Another lovely affair was given for the popular young couple in the home of Mr. Moody's sister, Mrs. Victor Wamsnaker, of Southgate. The evening was spent in an informal social manner. Gifts of linen, china and glassware were opened and admired by all present.

Refreshments were served at a beautifully appointed table centered with a miniature bride and groom. Wedding bell nut cups added an attractive note to the setting. Present at this affair were Miss Skiles, Glen Moody, Miss Jane Cunningham, Mrs. Haid, Mrs. Victor Wamsnaker, of Santa Ana; Harold Ferguson, of Placentia; Miss Lois Coburn and Tyler Coburn, of Montebello; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Landis, of Anaheim; Miss Dorothy Abbott, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Harrison, of Santa Ana, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wamsnaker.

HEALTH TALKS PRESENTED AT W. C. T. U. MEET

ORANGE, May 25.—"The Blood, the Life of the Body," was the subject of the talk given by Miss Emily Cox, of Santa Ana, state director of health on the W. C. T. U. board, yesterday at the local meeting of the W. C. T. U. held in the Presbyterian church.

A talk on "Pertinent Facts" was given by Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess at the noon hour. The speaker read from the International Student of March, "Root Evils." In part: "The unique evil that alcohol has upon humankind individually and collectively, the recognition it demands, the claims it seeks to enforce, might be urged as a reason for the efforts to break a yoke, yet the appeal to personal liberty is actually involved to perpetuate an intolerable thralldom."

"Justice Benjamin Cordoza, the eminent jurist from New York, recently appointed to the Supreme Court of the United States, is on record as saying, 'We are to be aware of the insularity of mind that pervades in every broad up on habit a catastrophe revolution.'"

"One might almost think the learned judge had the struggle against alcoholism in mind when he said 'The end to be achieved is more than the avoidance of pestilence or contagion.' The end to be achieved is the quality of men and women. If the moral and physical fibre of its womanhood and manhood is not a state concern, what is?"

Miss Cox illustrated her talk with a chart and health questions were answered by a number.

The enforcement plank resolution was passed, with Mrs. Minnie Neville presiding. Special music was given by Miss Elsie Parsons, accompanied by Mrs. C. A. McGill. Mrs. J. E. Parks conducted the devotionals. Announcement was made of the county executive board meeting at Huntington Beach June 3 and the annual picnic at Irvine park August 5, with Mrs. Mary Harris Armour as the speaker. Grandma Bacon, a crusader, closed the meeting with prayer.

ASSESSMENTS ACCEPTED BY CITY COUNCIL

ORANGE, May 25.—Now that sewer construction on Olive street and North Parker street has been completed in accordance with the contract and specifications, collections for the work are due and payable, it was announced at the Orange city council session.

The assessments as prepared by the city superintendent, C. G. Bonbrake, were accepted. They were not accepted without protest, however, for Jacob Feldner, included in the Parker street district, stated that he already is being served by another sewer. For the past 10 years he has had this service, and should not pay such a large assessment for another sewer that he does not need, he stated.

Council members explained that their custom in the past has been to assess all members of the district, and that it would be impossible to make exceptions. Therefore, they adopted a dismissal of appeal.

Bonbrake's plans and specifications for the construction of a sidewalk and curb on West Almond street were accepted by the council. The resolution of intention to construct the sidewalk and curb was adopted and June 21 was set as the time when all protests will be heard. Assessments will be cared for by special bonds to represent unpaid assessments and bear interest at the rate of six per cent per annum. The last installment will mature four years from the second day of July.

The council authorized the mayor and city clerk to sign a contract through which 26 residents of Villa Park district will be supplied with water from this city. Also, it was decided to furnish water to two men who applied.

The council accepted an invitation from the Orange Community Bible class to attend services Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Colonial theater.

A letter from the Orange County Builders' exchange, asking the council to pass a resolution in favor of hiring local labor for all work, was laid on the table.

At the close of the meeting, H. L. Dearing, city attorney, discussed licenses. He stated that a body cannot discriminate in an ordinance itself, but may discriminate in its enforcement. He said that many having protective ordinances which would do away with the business man who advertises he is going out of business and then proceeds to start up again and again.

KREML, Hair Tonic and Shampoo, K-B Drug Stores, Main at 6th, B'way at 2nd; McCoy Drug Stores, B'way and French at 4th. There are people mean enough to accuse KREML hair tonic of engendering vanity in frail humanity; for undoubtedly one does hear compliments galore on the loveliness of the hair that is receiving daily treatment with Kreml hair tonic; and the "good news" comes thicker and faster if one is also treating the hair and scalp to regular ablutions with KREML shampoo. There is a softness and sheen to hair shampooed with Kreml shampoo that makes it as manageable immediately after washing as ordinarily is not hoped for until a couple of days later. Then, KREML hair tonic is such a reliable friend to the permanent. No longer does the business girl at the surf on Sunday have to worry about Monday. A treatment of KREML puts the old permanent in its place like that! It saves you more than enough in shampoo to pay for the $1.50 bottle; sometimes on sale for $1.29.

SPEAKERS SAY CONDITIONS IN U. S. IMPROVED

PLACENTIA, May 25.—The present depression is caused, as all depressions in the past have been caused, by radical social and political changes, and is not to be looked upon as too disturbing, because when the resultant change is brought about, the benefits will fulfill all anticipated ambitions, according to Fred Valle, Placentia, who talked at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday noon, one of many speeches on "There is No Depression," sponsored by the chamber, with E. M. Everett as chairman.

Mr. Valle paid his fine, at the beginning of his talk, and then declared there is a depression, and that we should work to the best of our ability to solve the problems that are causing it.

Others who spoke, and who expressed the things that have come to them showing there is improvement in conditions, were H. H. Hale, who humorously told a story proving the difficulty is there is plenty of money, but no collector. Ed Eisenacher said the Placentia Mutual Orange association is employing 115 men in the fields, and is making effort to keep a full working crew.

Harry O. Easton, manager of the Placentia Mutual packing house, said that the trend of sales prices as well as the market for oranges is much better than growers anticipated. It can be directly attributed to the accumulated benefits of advertising citrus fruits over the past years.

Another point that the present conditions are improving is the play spirit, according to Easton, which is turning the golf player toward his home and turning many back yards into baseball and horseshoe grounds.

N. M. Laumer, manager of the American States Water company, said Placentia stands high on the list of cities suffering least from lack of employment.

Weston Smith announced that a certain sign of returning prosperity is that lemons have raised 97 cents a box.

A. S. Bradford, president of the chamber, made the concluding speech.

MESANS TOLD STANDARDS OF JESUS NEEDED

COSTA MESA, May 25.—George H. Stoner, professor of English of the Orange Union High school, was the speaker at the May Brotherhood meeting Tuesday evening in the social hall of the Community church. His topic, "Economic Conditions and Suggested Remedies," was full of interest.

Vital statistics as to population, distribution of wealth, income, and unemployment were cited. Ten percent of the people control nine tenths of the wealth, 20 percent now have enough to live on, and a vast number are unemployed or are existing without their actual needs being supplied, stated the speaker. "We cannot let people starve, there must be a way provided, until world markets are restored, so private enterprise may safely invest and operate," Professor Stoner said. "It seems that the government could function temporarily in the role of an old time barter, thus supplying needed goods for such time as private enterprise can operate."

"A social standard must be established, all classes must learn, all for each and each for all, while individual greed and ambition must give way to the spirit of helpfulness and brotherhood, as in time of war."

"Sacrifice is needed for the good of the whole. It is folly to seek wealth to obtain happiness, as has been proven many times recently. The standards of Jesus as given in the Gospels, if actually put in practice, would revolutionize the world in a short space of time; it is the social gospel needed."

Henry Abrams, school superintendent, was program chairman and introduced the speaker. A splendid dinner was served, with Mrs. A. M. Nelson in charge, assisted by Mesdames C. M. Rollins, T. J. Reynolds, C. Hummel, C. Ogden and Marion and C. Corwell Nelson.

BUILDING LOAN LEAGUE JOINS TAX CUT DRIVE

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Full strength of the California Building-Loan League comprising some 150 separate associations throughout the state with loans on California real estate totaling approximately $450,000,000 will be thrown into the fight against high taxes and excessive government expenditures. It became known yesterday when a call was issued for directors of the association to meet early in June.

The chief business of the session, according to Neil Davis, Los Angeles, executive secretary of the league, will be for the appointment of a strong committee to study and report on the best methods for reducing the tax burden. "It is fitting that building and loan associations should take an aggressive stand and fight high taxes," Secretary Davis stated. "The majority of California taxpayers are home owners and as building and loan associations are the state's chief lenders for home building, our position is clear."

Secretary Davis last week attended sessions in San Francisco of the United States Chamber of Commerce and declared that the subject uppermost in the minds of speakers was the tax issue. He asserted that practically every speaker stressed the importance of lowering taxes and curbing government expenditure if prosperity was to be returned in the nation.

PREFERS OXEN TO HORSES

BROWN CITY, Mich.—(UP)—Because they are more powerful than his team of horses, John Sisson keeps a yoke of oxen on his farm near here for heavy work. The oxen, 1400 pounds each, fill a necessary place in farming according to Sisson.

DOOR MADE AS JANITOR AT P. O. TIRES OF USING WINDOW

It was a tough job for the janitor at the new postoffice building in Santa Ana to climb out of a window in the balcony of the new federal building every time the flag was lowered and raised in the evening and morning, but it had to be done and there was no other way.

The only means of getting on the balcony was through a window. And so, after making arrangements with the government authorities, Postmaster Terry E. Stephenson arranged to have a door made out of the window, work on which was started yesterday. Bids were called for several weeks ago and the contract was awarded to G. A. Barrows. A building permit taken out for the job indicates that it will cost $282.

Constructed probably as no other buildings are under strict government supervision, federal buildings are built to stand the wear and tear of any sort of weather. However, it is a common thing to find federal buildings with a balcony where the flag is lowered and raised with no door entering on the balcony, according to Postmaster Stephenson.

The Farmer's Outlook

Written for The United Press by the University of California

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 25.—If present farm practices are any indication of what the farmers are thinking about, "home made farm relief" seems to have struck a popular fancy in agricultural circles.

Which is to say, that farmers everywhere, while waiting for farm relief generally expected from national legislation, are doing what they can to help themselves.

In this program of "home made farm relief," which after all is based on the teachings of agricultural colleges, and their experimental stations, basic, fundamental farm practices, suitable to the times, are incorporated.

In other words, farmers themselves, with the aid of agricultural college specialists, are looking about for the best methods of meeting their immediate economic situations.

If additional agricultural legislation comes, bringing with it promises of agricultural relief, farmers say, well and good. In the meantime, something must be done to aid present conditions.

Among those phases of "home made farm relief" on which emphasis is now being placed, are practices that reduce cash costs. Anything that can cut costs of production without impairing efficiency and maximum production per unit, farmers believe, is a good thing.

For example, we can cite such practices as fitting machinery to the needs of the farm; cooperation in owning equipment; avoiding too much power and electricity; avoiding an excess of labor; using home-produced foods, and urging local consumers to consume more of home-grown products.

While individual farmers are concentrating on factors that tend to reduce production costs, farmers' cooperative marketing associations are bending every effort in selling and distribution.

In this work, much practical help is being rendered by marketing specialists attached to the agricultural extension division of the agricultural colleges.

These marketing specialists are surveying and analyzing existing marketing organizations; assisting farmers and their cooperative groups, managers and directors in setting up new associations or in reorganizing old ones; teaching farmers how to improve methods of packing, grading and standardizing; providing them with "outlook" information to guide sales and production; keeping them informed about the activities of their own associations and the whole cooperative movement.

And, jointly with the teaching staffs of agricultural colleges, they are teaching sound, basic principles of marketing, emphasizing the part of cooperative marketing groups in the future economic picture of agriculture.

In the last analysis, agriculture can do more, perhaps, for itself, through its own initiative, than it can hope to expect from future national legislation. As this is being written, political circles are giving thought to the character of the farm planks in their 1932 platforms.

What those planks will contain is a guess, pure and simple. No one knows. Whether it will be a modification of the Federal Farm Board Marketing Act, the adoption of the export debenture plan, a trial for the equalization fee principle, or what not, is all problematical.

Which party will offer the best outlook for "farm relief" is hard to predict. Meanwhile, agriculture must go on and improve its economic position in the best possible way. That fact is obvious.

Of one thing, the farmer is definitely certain. That fact is that agricultural colleges have no axe to grind, are impartial and unbiased in their recommendations, and are anxious to do everything in their power to help agriculture succeed.

Practical agricultural education, as taught by the agricultural colleges has proven of inestimable assistance to agriculture in the past. It will prove to be of similar value to agriculture in the future.

GIDEON SECRETARY MAY LOCATE HERE

A. W. Bourne, membership secretary for the Gideons, with headquarters in Los Angeles, who has appeared as guest speaker in a number of Santa Ana pulpits recently, is planning to make Santa Ana his home, it was learned today.

Bourne, who was formerly state secretary of the Gideon work in Missouri, says he likes Santa Ana better than any other spot he has visited in Southern California, and will move his family here if arrangements can be made. Churches where he spoke recently include First Presbyterian, Spurgeon Memorial, First Evangelical and Reformed Presbyterian.

The Gideon worker, who is checking on Bibles placed by that society in hotels, is a representative of the A. Nash company, "golden rule" clothing manufacturers.

Lawbreakers Pay $21,307 For Year In Orange County

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 25.—It cost citizens of Orange county $21,307 to break the law last year.

This was disclosed in the annual report of State Controller Ray L. Riley, who pointed out that nearly a million dollars in fines were paid in justice and superior courts of California for various offenses during the year.

The convictions for which the fines were levied ranged all the way from speeding in an automobile to violations of the Volstead act.

Whether it was the depression or whether it was because of less crime, the amount collected by California counties in fines and penalties last year marked a decrease over the previous 12 months.

Signs of better times

"The decline in important business indicators and in commodity prices slackened and in some cases ceased...Merchandise carloadings have risen moderately and as the month closes steel production is slowly expanding...More significant are the first signs that Federal Reserve efforts to start credit expansion are beginning to take effect...Reduction of money rates in foreign centers also reflects further easing of financial tension...If this tendency continues it will be an encouraging indication that the stormy winter is past and spring not far behind..."

The Business Week (May 4, 1932)

Unemployment in California will vanish only when every inactive dollar in the state gets back to work... Changing our mental attitude from one of fear and anxiety to courage and common sense—getting our dollars back into normal action through sensible buying or investing, and banking our surplus—is the only way back to sound prosperity...The entire Bank of America organization of 8,000 strong—reinforced by more than 200,000 California stockholders—is engaged in a vigorous statewide "Back-to-good-times" movement. Constructive newspaper, radio, outdoor and street car advertising, combined with intensive personal effort, are the forces energetically working for a statewide return to normal conditions...Join this public spirited movement. Put your inactive money to work through banks and legitimate trade channels. Only circulating dollars will create jobs—nothing else can!

CLUB FRATERNAL

Fascinating Spectacle Afforded by Shawl Collection

To the lover of fine shawls, to the student of fashions and to the historically minded. Monday night's display of shawls in the parlor room of the clubhouse, following the program staged by the Second Household Economics section of that society, held peculiar values.

From India, from Denmark, from Persia, Spain and Austria, the shawls which comprised the exhibit had been brought by various club members and their friends, to be collected by Mrs. A. G. Flagg and her enterprising committee and displayed in a single grouping for the benefit of the present patrons.

Beginning in age from 75 to 200 years, the shawls proved vastly interesting to those lingering over the tables upon which they were spread, behind which Mrs. Flagg and her committee, Mrs. H. T. Dunning and Mrs. W. L. Deimling, assisted by Mrs. James C. Metzgar, explained in detail the workmanship and origin of many of these exhibited.

Among specimens inviting special attention were a red shawl of India, from the collection of Mrs. H. B. Hill; a Spanish mantle from Valparaiso, Chile, contributed by Mrs. I. F. Landis; a pink and blue scarf from Austria, brought by Mrs. Charles Campbell; a shawl from Denmark, 200 years in age; a second shawl of identical age, that of Mrs. M. K. Flint; a Kashmir shawl of Leonard Baker's; shawls brought from Italy by Mrs. O. H. Edge and her sister; a shawl from Canton, China, displayed by Mrs. George S. Briggs; and several from Shanghai, loaned by Mrs. George Baker; a handsome white figured shawl, brought by Mrs. J. E. Paul; an old black shawl worn by Mrs. Carl Moeck's mother when she crossed the plains by covered wagon together with magnificent Paisley and Persian examples which hung like tapestries upon the walls.

Tea Enjoyed
Guests were served tea from beautifully appointed tables bearing arbor centerpieces of larkspur, snapdragons and columbine, flanked by candelabra with tapers of pastel shades. Behind this table were ensconced Mesdames J. Frank Burke, S. W. Nau, E. E. Sprague, O. M. Robbins, W. L. Ferrey and R. P. Yeagle, assisted by Mesdames L. M. Forney, Frank Patterson, John Ball, J. E. Paul, W. H. Harrison, Miss Lulu Minter, Miss Inez Cloyes, Mesdames Elsie Diehl, C. W. Newman, Weycock Hoxie, C. W. Dowds and Roy Hall.

Members of the courtesy committee, of which Mrs. F. E. Coulter is chairman, supervised tea arrangements. A home-made candy sale was conducted by the Second Household Economics section under the direction of Mrs. James N. Harding. Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh arranged musical numbers for the program.

Humorous Tales Read At Quill Pen Club Meeting

Two of the most entertaining stories of a succession of program meetings, were read last night at Quill Pen club when its members were entertained in the home of Mrs. Maude Goff, 206 Pacific avenue, where Mrs. Goff and Miss Dorothy Clarkson were co-hostesses.

The stories in question, "Four Months of Red Hair" by Mrs. Roy Winchester, and "The Nut Cracker Sweetie" by Mrs. Samuel Marshall, were both in humorous vein, and their reading was to the accompaniment of spontaneous laughter from the delighted clubwomen. Preceding the story reading was the twenty-minute interval planned by Mrs. Goff, with each one present writing on the intriguing theme selected. Contributions ranged from essay to story and verse forms.

It was of special interest to the members to learn that Miss Clarkson's sonnet, "Into the Wind," recently published, had been sought for the "American Poetry Anthology" now being compiled by Ralph Cheney of New York. Another Santa Ana writer, Miss Beulah May, will be represented in this anthology as well.

At the conclusion of the program, which proved to be rather shorter than usual, Mrs. Frank was prevailed upon to read excerpts from a story whose development the club members are following with intense interest. The remainder of the evening was given over to discussing the different contributions, and to the enjoyment of the refreshment menu planned by the two hostesses and served with the assistance of Miss Edith Johnson, a guest.

Club members present included in addition to Miss Clarkson and Mrs. Goff, Mrs. Marshall Harms, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. Roy Winchester, Mrs. S. B. Marshall, Miss Lella Watson, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. C. M. McClintock, Mrs. Frank Was, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, and one guest, Miss Johnson.

Daughters of Veterans

Importance was given at yesterday's meeting of Sarah A. Rounds tent, D. U. V., to Memorial day plans, and all members were requested to form in line Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, that they might attend special Memorial Day services there in a body. Any Santa Ana woman whose father was a veteran of the Civil War, is asked to join the group regardless of her affiliations with a Daughters of Veterans tent.

Plans were made as well for meeting Sunday afternoon with Mrs. T. R. Overton, 616 West Third street, to make bouquets for distribution on Memorial day itself. Daughters are asked to bring as many flowers as possible, and have them already arranged suitable clusters.

Yesterday's tent session was conducted by the president, Mrs. Lena G. Hewitt, and there were 17 additional officers present in addition to a large group of general members. The meeting was held in Pythian hall.

Four new members were initiated, Mesdames Carrie Sherrill, Cora Torrens, Mary Adamson and Winifred Thompson. Initiation was followed by an interval of reports during which it was disclosed that since the latest previous meeting, 48 calls had been made, three funeral sprays sent; 63 bouquets presented, and over $40 expended in patriotic work.

Youthful Matrons Plan Party for Friend Soon to Wed

Among the pretty parties inspired by the many approaching weddings of early summer, none has been more pleasant than the shower given last night by Mrs. Ethel Loudenback (Louise Proctor) and Mrs. William Fritcher (Virginia Viau), as a compliment to Miss Virginia Forney, soon to wed the Rev. Howard F. Nason.

It was in the Loudenback home at 823 1-2 South Ross street, that the party was held, and contributing to the charm of the setting were the artistic floral arrangements in which larkspur, columbine and sweet peas were mingled.

The hostesses, both of whom were receiving just such pre-nuptial compliments a year ago, called to mind the charms of their own engagement affairs in planning the party for Miss Forney, and instituted an amusing contest in the "Musical Romance" which preceded a session of progressive hearts. Happily, everyone received a reward, for pretty corsage bouquets were distributed at the close of the game session, although prizes in the hearts contest went to Miss Evelyn Carney and Miss Miriam Samuelson.

For the serving of a buffet supper, the hostesses arranged the dining table with sweet peas in gay colors, flanked by tall green candles in crystal holders. Duplicates of these candles were used on the individual tables to which guests repaired with their plates, and detailed nut cups added a pretty touch as did their own lovely bridal linens, silver and crystal which the two young matrons utilized for serving.

Asked to share the happy evening with the honor guest, Miss Forney, were Mrs. Edward Healy, Mrs. Lyle Forney, Mrs. Edward Vurtis, Mrs. Dale Park, and the Misses Evelyn Carney, Mary Elsie, Hazel Elton, Dorothy Proctor, Veneta Viau, Miriam Samuelson, Jean Silver and Wilma Silver.

Community Play Cast Enjoys Reunion in Director's Home

A pleasant aftermath to the most recent community play "Just Suppose," was afforded in the informal buffet supper given by Mrs. Maurice Enderle (Harriet Owens Enderle) director of the production, to the members of her cast in the Enderle home on Yorba street.

The party, in addition to allowing a reunion of the former play associates, provided a medium for the original work of two young Santa Ana artists, Miss Mary Boyer of the Santa Ana Children's library, and Miss Dorothy Mayhew, talented pianist.

Members of the group were allowed a "pre-view" of a new puppet show which Miss Boyer is undertaking when she erected a miniature stage and proceeded to put brand new puppets through the action of a playlet entitled, "The Prince Who Cried for the Moon." Both dolls and line pleased exceedingly and the audience prophesied a gratifying success for the production.

While guests awaited the buffet supper, Miss Dorothy Mayhew entertained with several original piano sketches of recent composition, among these being "Honey Lamb," a Negro lullaby, and a ballad titled "The Yearning Heart," all of her offerings being

Fidelis Class Will Aid Missions

Voting to raise a sum of $50 to be expended in behalf of mission work, members of the Fidelis class of the First Baptist church convened briefly for a business session in the course of an all-day meeting held recently in the Wilbur cottage at Laguna Beach. Materials for a covered dish luncheon had been brought by the women, and following the repast several hours were spent on the beach.

Student Recital

Many baskets of flowers helped make a beautiful setting for a recent May-time recital, when Mabel Krause, teacher of piano, presented 20 piano pupils in an interesting program of less than an hour and a half's duration in the Peacock room of the Ebell clubhouse. The program began with an admirable performance of a piano duet, which was followed by solo selections, played without interruption and all showing thorough preparation. Later in the evening's entertainment, an additional duet was played by Doris Miller and Jane Nalle.

The high point of the evening was reached with the playing of Janet Diehl, a most gifted young student, and with the brilliant rendition of a group of numbers by Duncan Harnois.

Participants in the evening's concert who were enthusiastically greeted by their parents and a host of friends, includes Marjorie Wall, Helen Tidball, Barbara Hillyard, Jane Downing, Marilyn Kyle, Alice Clare McFarland, Billy Carden, Louis Riehl, Chester Stearns, Doris Miller, Jane Nalle, Mary Louise Leinberger, Billy Leinberger, Barbara Speed, Virginia Matthews, Dorothy Matz, Elizabeth Winbiger, Virginia King, Janet Diehl and Duncan Harnois.

Mr. Reser is the leader of an orchestra at a local ballroom during the summer and is a student at the Los Angeles College of Osteopathy.

Oysters Good, All Year 'Round!

People are a good deal like a band of sheep in their ability to accept the say-so of someone regarded as an authority.

Just for example, take the matter of oysters being unfit for food during the months lacking an R. Oysters are no more unfit for food in those months than salmon are when they are making their spawning run.

Some bright oysterman saw the handwriting on the wall unless something was done to keep the oyster beds from being depleted, so he just whispered in a friend's right ear, "Oysters are unfit for food in the months without an R." And that someone spread the news, adding to it at each spreading.

If properly refrigerated oysters are good the year 'round. Right now the big Willapa's are so cheap! Do have them at least once a week. A pint of oysters and a half-dozen eggs will serve four for dinner if the oysters are large count, six if smaller count.

Get them the size you like, wash 'em, drain. Dip each oyster in egg, then in cracker crumbs and fry in butter. The eggs are just beaten to mix well, a cup of rich milk is added, a pinch of salt and pepper, and two nice omelette are ready as quick as cat can wink her eye.

The lightest of omelettes can be made by having a little butter in a big skillet and very hot; pour in half of the egg mixture, shake over a hot fire, then slip under the broiler flame to set the eggs. Roll up, and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Omelette and omelette are a grand combination.

TODAY'S RECIPE BISQUE CREAM (Original Recipe)

1 cup sugar
1 cup water
4 eggs, whites beaten stiff
6 tablespoons sifted macaroons
Sherry to flavor
3 pints whipping cream

I don't wonder the whaling business was in its hey-day when this recipe came into being: It would take more than whalebone and cast iron corsets to confine the curves this old dessert produced!

Now, let's see what we can do to tone down the fat calories. Just for the fun of it, let's see how many fat calories the cream contained.

A tablespoonful of whipping cream is held to contain 70 calories, and there are 16 of them in one cup, 2 cups to a pint, and 3 pints of cream in the recipe. That is 1120 to a cup and 6720 fat calories for the whole lot.

OUR MODERN WAY

Boil the sugar and syrup until it makes a soft ball in water. Have the egg whites beaten stiff. Put them in a double boiler and pour the hot syrup over them, beating well. Then add the beaten yolks, stir until a heavy custard frosting results. Take off the fire and cool. Add sherry flavoring (non-alcoholic) and combine with 1 tall can of evaporated milk, frozen to a mush, quickly whipped and folded through the custard part. Put into mechanical refrigerator and freeze four or six hours. Do not stir.

The bisque will serve ten, and the calories are but 3265 against 8125 for the original recipe. Fresh whipping cream (1 cup) can be used if evaporated milk is objectionable in flavor.

Interesting Way to Cook Asparagus, recipes covering many ways of cooking this wonderful spring vegetable, is the subject of this week's leaflet.

This leaflet is free this week. Just enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when you write for it.

Thursday the recipe will be for making a Chicken and Oyster Pie. ANN MEREDITH.

The Scrub-a-dubs were curious. "Why did you come to call on us?" said one of them. "We seldom have nice lads like you drop in."

"Oh, we are glad to meet new friends. Our search for new ones never ends," said Scooty. "Gee, in all parts of the wide world we have been."

"But, come, please tell us more about the things you do. I have no doubt that you are kept real busy in the springtime of the year."

"If you have anything to do right now, we Tynmies will join you. We've worked before and can again. We're handy, never fear."

"Well, thank you," said the funny mop, "but we are tired and planned to stop and take a little rest. You see, we need one now and then."

"We all will flop around at ease and take a nice nap, if we please. And then we will be ready to go back to work again."

Another shouted, "If you boys can stand what you may think is noise, we'll sing our little cleanup song. 'Twill tell you everything."

"Hurrah!" cried Duncy. "That suits me. We'll listen quite attentively. Please form a quartet right away and let your voices ring."

The Scrub-a-dubs were glad to do the thing that Duncy asked them to. They promptly started singing and their song was very cute. They sang "We are the Scrub-a-dubs. Our job is one of scrapes and rubs. Whenever things need cleaning, to this very thing we scoot."

"We wash the windows, clean the floors in houses and in great big stores. We send the dust running, so that everything can shine. We always have a lot of fun and, frankly, when our work is done we're always sure that everything we've worked on looks just fine."

Five Years Lindbergh

On May 20, 1927, an obscure young aviator; the next day, the world's greatest celebrity . . . and he still remains our biggest news figure

By HELEN WELSHIMER

WHEN the world wants to celebrate the anniversary of a famous achievement it generally has to look around to see what has become of the man who performed the stunt. People have a habit of dropping out of the limelight. Especially after five years.

But Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who was just an unknown young airmail pilot when he set off on his transoceanic flight to Paris on May 20, 1927, and the most famous aviator of his day when he landed at Le Bourget the next night, has won a fame that is as substantial as it is spectacular.

Five years have passed since that pioneering flight across the Atlantic, and he is as great a national hero and world figure as ever. He has kept his ship in the sky by establishing new records and blazing new airways.

Lindbergh was an airmail pilot back in 1926. A very successful one. He always came in at the appointed time and place.

One night, while his ship was winging its way across the country, he started to think about transatlantic flights. Riding high above the world, while sleepy villages blinked their lights under his ship, he started to wonder how it would seem to have an ocean for a floor and a sky for a ceiling.

He decided that a man who charted his route carefully and had a reliable plane would be safe. All he would have to do would be to stay awake and keep flying.

LINDY had met plenty of dangers. During his early days in the air he had done exhibition flying. He flew around the country selling thrills—parachute jumping, wing walking, and so on. He had jumped with a parachute to save his life four times.

Lindbergh grew up wanting to fly. When other youngsters were playing ball and wondering how good you had to be to make the big time, he was wondering what his chances were in the air. When he was 20 he decided that he would make aviation the main objective in his life.

He was already enrolled as a flying student with the Nebraska Aircraft Corporation. But he was studying at the University of Wisconsin, at the same time. He closed his textbooks and began to concentrate on aeronautics.

Lindbergh, as it happened, was the only student at the flying school at the time. He spent a great deal of time roaming around the factory, learning the mechanics of his profession.

Within a few months he was ready to solo—but he couldn't. A bond was required by the president of the company, in order to protect the ship. If it crashed the company wanted something to make up for the loss.

Lindbergh had no doubt at all that he could take the ship up and bring it down safely. But he had no money. He got into barnstorming. He became a wing-walker. He had never taken up a ship of his own, but he was quite agile at walking around in the air.

AFTER a while he soloed. He soon became very proficient. And he ended in the airmail service, which was the place that he most wanted to be.

Then he decided that he would risk the transatlantic flight. That was in August of 1926.

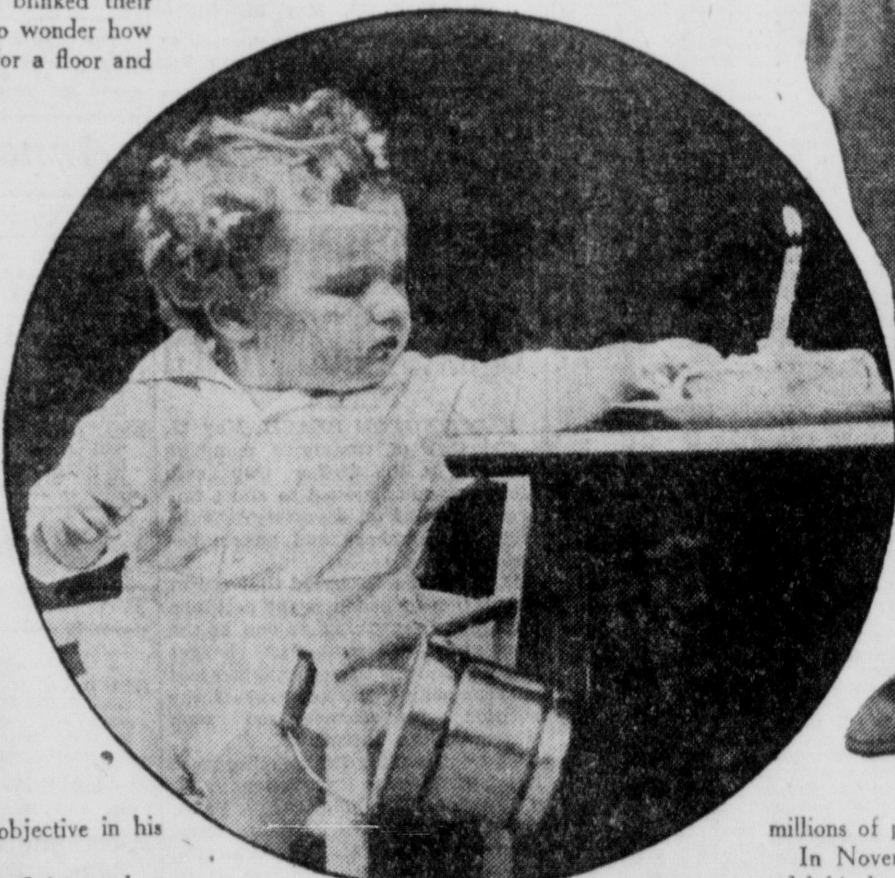

In December he went down to New York and gathered data on the pioneering venture. He didn't intend to fly blind. He wanted to get where he was going.

The Spirit of St. Louis, the ship in which the flight was made, was ordered in February, 1927. In May Lindy climbed into the cockpit at San Diego, Calif., adjusted his goggles, and headed for Roosevelt Field, New York. When he arrived he told the surprised officials that he was leaving for Paris in a day or two. Flying over, he said.

Almost before they could find their breath he was gone.

He took off at 7:52 on the morning of May 20th. For the next 33½ hours the world had its biggest thrill. It was wondering where Lindy was.

People stood on street corners and talked about him. Sat at their desks and thought about him. Stood at a big prize fight in New York and prayed for him.

Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. . . . A whole nation mourned when he was kidnaped.

THE whir of the engine filled offices and factories. Nobody could work. Not until word came that he had landed the next night, May 21, at 10:24, at Le Bourget, near Paris.

People didn't work very much the next day, either. They celebrated. It seemed impossible for such fame to last indefinitely. And yet it has. Colonel Lindbergh has never stopped pioneering in the air. And each new achievement has brought new acclaim.

The distinguished aviator received the $25,000 Raymond Orteig prize. Medals and degrees came tumbling. But he was much more interested in testing out his airmanship than in starting a museum.

He started out immediately on a 30,000-mile tour of the United States. Some days he made 1000 miles. Naturally, everyone watched for him. He didn't miss a state in the Union and he attended banquets and talked to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who kept his fame undimmed through five years.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh, who accompanied her husband on some of his record-breaking flights.

In November St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia bestowed the degree of Master in Science of Aeronautics upon Lindy. The very next day, November 14th, President Hoover presented him with the Hubbard Gold Medal of the National Geographic Society. Colonel Lindbergh was the eighth person in more than 40 years to receive this award. The next month the National House of Representatives passed a resolution to award him the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Then, in December, he did his second outstanding bit of flying. He left on a South American tour for the promotion of international harmony.

HE started by making the first non-stop flight to Mexico City. He worked his way southward, through Central America to the Canal Zone. The trail for the airmail route was blazed on this flight. Coming home, Lindy made a 15-hour non-stop flight from Havana, Cuba, to St. Louis.

When he got back home from Latin America he took up his commercial contacts again. He became technical advisor to the Transcontinental Air Transport between New York and Los Angeles, and then held the same position with the Pan-American Airways. He made surveys in the air, laid out new paths for the ships. He went down to Latin America and helped map their routes, too.

The noted young aviator was front-page stuff again on April 24, 1928, when he flew from New York to Quebec with serum in a futile effort to save the life of Floyd Bennett.

When a mail and passenger combination was opened between Brownsville, Texas, and Mexico City, on March 9, 1929, Lindy flew the first large passenger transport which joined the two points. When the first mail went from Miami down to Panama, he took the ship on its course and brought it home again.

His marriage was one of the big events of the next year. Anne Morrow, daughter of the late Dwight W. Morrow, former United States ambassador to Mexico and United States senator from New Jersey, and Lindy met following the transatlantic flight. They had as nice a romance as anyone could want. All the time it was going on the unsuspecting world wondered why Lindy didn't have a girl. The announcement of the engagement was made in February, 1929, and the wedding took place at the Morrow home at Englewood, New Jersey, in May.

LINDY soared again in July when he piloted the first west-to-east plane from California to Arizona on a new airmail line.

In September he set a new record for the St. Louis-New York trip. He beat the record of Captain Hawks by three minutes. At the same time he opened the mail service and blazed the passenger route for the Pan-American Airways. He flew down the east coast of South America carrying the first load of airmail.

The next month Lindy and Anne took an archeologist with them and went flying over Central America, trying to find some Mayan ruins. They sighted an unknown city which men, searching on the ground for months and months, had not been able to locate.

Lindbergh started 1930 by becoming a glider.

In April he performed his second most daring aviation achievement. He blazed a new transcontinental trail. An experiment in high altitude flying, he called it.

He wanted to see on how high a level passenger and mail planes can fly. Theoretically, ships fly faster when they fly high. Engineers and meteorologists have said that for a long time. Altitude means greater speed, since weather conditions are usually better in the upper air than close to the ground.

SO Lindy went up to a height of nearly three miles and set a cross-continental record of 14 hours and 23 minutes. He flew the course in three hours less time than anyone had flown it before. Anne went along. This flight established the fact that the upper air is better for transport than the lower levels.

But Lindy didn't rest up. One week later he arrived in Havana on a flight with mail that he had brought across the Caribbean Sea. He inaugurated the Miami-Cristobal route at this time.

The birth of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was the next important event in the famous household. He was born at the Morrow home in Englewood, New Jersey, on June 23, 1930.

In the summer of 1930 Congress started to review Lindy's achievements. Three years had passed since he had flown across an ocean to fame. But he had gone right on establishing new records and charting new air paths. This was remarkable, Congress decided. It gave him a medal of appreciation. President Hoover presented it in August of 1930.

Lindbergh's next triumph came in the summer of 1931. He and Anne decided that they would fly to the Orient. The State Department announced that they were going. In July they left, as good-will ambassadors to the East.

THEY were forced down by fog, upset in a river, and attended by other thrills, but Lindy accomplished what he set out to do.

The biggest news story that has broken since the transatlantic flight also concerned the Lindbergh family. Charles Augustus, Jr., was kidnaped from his nursery on the night of March 1, 1932. People went crazy with excitement. Nobody could relax. The world was as excited as it had been when Lindy dared the Atlantic in his monoplane.

No news story ever had so many people working on it. Four hundred and fifty of them descended on the little town of Hopewell, N. J. They outnumbered the correspondents with the American army during the World War four or five to one. The kidnaping drove the Sino-Japanese War into the background of the public mind.

Aviation authorities and everybody else say that Lindy's unbroken popularity is due to three things: continuous achievement, modesty (it is all in the day's work, he says), and the fact that he does everything for some definite, helpful purpose instead of doing it for spectacular effect.

That, so they all agree, is why he is able to celebrate the fifth anniversary of his transatlantic flight with his glory undimmed.

JOE SESSORS RELIEF GROUPS PLANNED HERE

Acting upon a formal motion, members of the Santa Ana Community chest decided at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday to call a joint meeting of all relief organizations, character building organizations, city council, unemployment groups and other interested organizations in the near future to outline a definite program of relief for Santa Ana and to make arrangements for the annual chest drive to be held this fall.

No definite date was set for the joint meeting, when representatives of all organizations would meet to discuss mutual relief and civic problems concerning unemployment and distress resulting from need, as well as the successful operation of character building institutions. Members agreed yesterday that there was a constant overlapping and duplication of relief efforts in Santa Ana due to the multiplicity of organizations furnishing necessities of life to the needy families. The matter will furnish subject for discussion at the joint affair.

The board of directors adopted a motion changing the form of contract for member organizations which stipulates that if the chest does not raise 90 per cent of the set quota, then the organizations can stage another drive with the agreement of the chest board and boards of directors of other organizations as to the time and kind of drive.

The meeting yesterday was a preliminary meeting to start an educational campaign for workers who will aid the drive this fall. The campaigns are usually held in the latter part of October. W. J. Traw, president, has requested member organizations to have their budgets ready for approval by June 1. No date has been set for the drive nor has the amount of the chest budget been determined. Fixing of the amount depends on the submitted budgets of organizations.

The advisability of having two cards for pledges and donations this year was discussed. One of the cards would be for character building organizations and the other for relief groups. No action was taken on this matter.

Question Shatter Proof Glass In School Busses Up

On request of the Orange Union High school district the board of supervisors yesterday instructed Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton to prepare a resolution urging that the new requirement of shatterproof glass in school busses be made to apply only to new busses and not to vehicles already owned by the various school districts.

A copy of the resolution was ordered sent to all high schools in the county.

A similar resolution was adopted by the Orange Union High school district in which it was pointed out that at $150 per bus it would cost approximately $15,000 to equip busses now in service in the county.

DIRECTORS GET REPORTS ON C. OF C. MEET

Discussion of reports from local delegates to the United States Chamber of Commerce convention held recently in San Francisco, occupied most of the time devoted to the regular bi-monthly meeting of the directors of the local chamber of commerce which was held this morning in the office in the court house annex.

Reports were given by J. P. Baumgartner, O. H. Barr and Secretary George A. Raymer.

Following the reports, members devoted considerable time to discussion of the economic significance of the addresses delivered at the convention. The reports will be published in bulletin form and distributed to the membership of the local chamber of commerce, following recommendation of the directors this morning.

Banishment of the nation-wide fear that destroys confidence and paralyzes business would be a most important step towards the recovery of national prosperity, according to the combined opinions of local directors. Means of accomplishing this were discussed by the directors.

The directors referred a resolution sent by the Monterey chamber approving the continued operation of citizens' military training camps in the state and nation, to the legislative committee for recommendation.

BOARD TOURS TO REQUEST FOR HONOR PINS

Calling attention to the fact that some time ago one member of the school board had expressed the opinion that "it was hoped the opinion that 'it was hoped that at some time the board would do as much for the Honor society as for the football men,' D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana High school, in a letter to the board read at the meeting last night, pointed out that now is the time something can be done.

He asked the board to purchase novitiate pins for members of the society to wear before they qualify as permanent members and suggested that guards for life member pins be included in the purchase. The cost of novitiate pins would be $1 and the guards would cost $2.1. Hammond pointed out that the novitiate pins would be worn only so long as a student could qualify for the honor.

This opportunity, however, was turned down in a deadlock vote with W. M. Burke and Dr. Margaret Baker voting "Yes" and M. B. Youel and Chairman George Wells voting "No." Rella Hays, fifth member is on his vacation.

Youel said that he was opposed to purchasing the pins at this time because it would tend to set a precedent. He pointed out that students who received the pins one year and could not qualify the next might suffer embarrassment through having to relinquish the decorations.

Burke pointed out that on the contrary, the pins would be a spur to greater endeavors and should be given as a mark of recognition for work accomplished by the students. Dr. Baker concurred and said that she was of the opinion that this recognition should be accorded the Honor society students.

Wells asked if the element of friendship entered in attaining membership in this society and was assured by Dr. Percy Davis, school superintendent, that membership was acquired only through maintaining high grades and that this grading was done absolutely on merits by the teachers.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 25.—(UP)—The liquidation and distress selling today brought the stock market into new low ground for the depression. The industrial average broke to a new low since 1904 and the rail average made a record low.

Trading in various sections was heavier than recently had a few relatively large blocks turned over. Bonds also declined with rails leading the downturn. Wheat made a spirited comeback late in the day and closed higher. The latter, however, did not appear to bring out any aid for the stock market as it usually does.

TETANUS AFTER INJURY FROM TO NATURE SON

Mack H. Morrison, 65, 1120 East Washington avenue, passed away last night after an illness of brief duration. His death resulted directly from a wound in his foot, caused by striking his foot with a pick. Tetanus set in and caused his demise. He was a native of California.

He had been a resident of Santa Ana for the past 26 years and at various times had been employed by the Chapman Lumber company, the Obar Meat company, construction organizations in the city and by the city. He was an active citizen of the city and was well liked by his many friends. At the time of his death he was employed by the city.

While working on construction in the south part of the city, two weeks ago he struck his foot with a pick. The pick penetrated his shoe and made a slight wound in his foot. Seriousness of his condition became apparent only a few days ago and rapidly developed into tetanus from which he passed away last night. He was a member of the Spurgeon Memorial church and for many past years has been well known and active in various fraternal organizations.

He is survived by his wife, Ida H. Morrison; three sons, Lottus B. Morrison and H. Marvin Morrison, of Santa Ana, and Orville F. Morrison, of Portland, Oregon; three daughters, Mrs. J. D. Kenna and Mrs. John H. Reynolds, of Kings City, Calif., and Miss Evelyn May Morrison, of Santa Ana; and three brothers, Walter Morrison and William Morrison of Santa Ana, and John Morrison, of Merced, Calif.

Funeral services will be held from the Winthier Funeral home, 608 North Main street, Friday at 10 a. m. with the Rev. C. M. Akor, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church officiating. Interment will be made in Fairview cemetery.

score often in the early rounds when the champs were loading the bases in nearly every frame.

Nelson's single and Preble's double gave the Stars an early lead as the second inning.

They added three on the fourth. Ballard was safe at second when Herman fozzled his bunt and then then singly to first. Scott singled infield and went to third unmolested on the first pitch to Wilcox, who later fled to right, Ballard scoring after the catch.

Cornelius singled to center, tallying Scott. Hill singled to left. Cornelius went to third and worked a double steal with Hill for the third run of the round. Merrill singled sharply to left but Hill was cut off at the plate on a perfect relay by Gunther.

Nelson made Santa Ana fifth and what proved to be its winning marker in the fifth. He singled to center and was safe stealing when Hatfield dropped Bushman's throw. Ballard singled Nelson to third and he scored on a wild pitch.

FREE SPEECH AND THE RADIO

An occurrence alarming in its implications and curious in regard to the explanation that was made of it occurred the other day.

Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard University was scheduled to speak over an N.B.C. broadcast. The address which was to be broadcast was one which he was delivering at the annual conference of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Before delivering his address Professor Ripley said that the broadcasting agencies had refused to broadcast his speech as he had written it. "I have been asked to blue-pencil my speech," he told the audience. "I have never submitted to blue-penciling and I will not begin now."

John Royal, vice president in charge of programs of the National Broadcasting Company, and Howard Biddulph, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks offered some explanation. It developed that the broadcasting had been canceled as the result of a consultation among representatives of the broadcasting company and press officials of the association. Mr. Royal said that he did not see Professor Ripley's speech but understood that the address was edited and blue-penciled when it arrived at the program department of N.B.C.

To delve into the subject of Professor Ripley's address is to confuse the issue. It is curious how many people believe in the right of free speech so long as the views expounded are not out of harmony with their own, but when they are out of harmony all sorts of excuses are found for censoring them. One should really make up his or her mind whether or not he believes in free speech and have the courage of his convictions on the matter.

In centuries long past it was considered dangerous to let the hoi polloi know too much. Knowledge and information was passed about among a select few by means of symbols designed to conceal the substance from the uninitiated. It was considered dangerous to let the people know what the rulers knew.

Today, since we are ruling ourselves it is considered dangerous to leave the average man and woman in ignorance. When all else fails, our faith in education and the ultimate triumph of right if the people are well informed, keeps people sane in a tempestuous world.

A man whose opinions are of any value whatever, values them too highly to permit someone else to dictate their expression. We can be thankful that we are still permitted to read Professor Ripley's proposals in books, magazines, and newspapers. Some day the national broadcasts will discover that they have made a costly sacrifice when they chose between censorship and free speech. Knowing that whatever is said over those broadcasts is carefully blue-penciled with certain purposes in mind people will not rely upon them for information and certainly no man will jeopardize his reputation by agreeing to speak where he is curtailed and his ideas suppressed or distorted.

WE WONDER NOW

There are many who very much disapproved of the methods employed to get the return of the Lindbergh baby. It was humiliating to see the government abdicating in favor of the underworld and of private parties in the effort to find the kidnappers of the child. But they swallowed their sentiment and their protest because they felt the deepest sympathy for the parents of the child. They would do nothing to imperil the life of the child and its safe return. So the authorities permitted two New York gangsters to solve the question. Private parties, some of them gullible, and at least one of them crazy or a dastardly crook, were also given free rein. The infamous Capone, scoundrel that he has always been, also agreed to get the child if he were set at liberty; and at the very time when he issued his dastardly offer the little body of the child was lying dead within a few miles from the home from which it had been taken.

We cannot now recall in history or in experience anything more damnable than this exploiting of the grief and anxiety of a father and a mother, and the readiness of the officials of the law to abdicate their powers in favor of gangsters and gullible fools. The whole affair has shocked the country and the world. The people will never be satisfied until the whole miserable business has been exposed, and the real criminals apprehended. Such offenses should not go unpunished and unrebuked. When society has been relegated to the sidelines, and gangsters have been drawn in who knew no more about it than the average child on the street, it is a time for serious thinking. If nothing comes of this case, society has a big black mark against it which will require many years for the public to forget.

The little child is gone; the father and the mother are steeped in grief; but there is yet a great work to be done and that is to go to the bottom of the whole nasty business. The people have no regrets in withholding their protests while there were still hopes for the recovery of the child; but now they have every right to expect the officials of the law to smoke out the vermin which took advantage of the grief of the parents, and even succeeded in reducing the officials of the law to impotence.

War debts may be a live topic in the United States, but France and England forgot all about them when they made up their new budgets.

RUSSIA EXTENDS CREDIT TO TURKEY

We have been in the habit of thinking of Russia as a nation desiring to borrow from other nations. Now we learn that Russia has agreed to extend credit to Turkey to the amount of $8,000,000 for a term of 15 years. The incident is so novel that it has been the cause of much comment.

As a matter of fact, no money is to be exchanged. Russia agrees to sell to Turkey industrial tools, agricultural machinery, and fertilizers, and Turkey agreed to pay off the loan in tobacco, wool, fruits, and vegetables. It is a system of international barter, an exchange of goods of which each happen to have a surplus.

As a matter of fact, many of our loans to South American and European countries never involved the passing of money to the borrower. A certain amount of credit was extended to these countries here in the United States, and they usually took up the credit in goods. Instead of erecting tariff barriers, why would it not be a good idea for us to credit other countries with a certain amount, and then fix the goods which should be given in exchange for goods which they should give us? There are certain goods, like rubber, and manganese, and spices, which we must import. There are certain goods of which we have a surplus, for which we would like to find a market, like farm machinery, and cotton, and wheat, which might be credited to the payment of the loan.

The system looks good to us. It would have to be done by treaty between the two governments as was done by Turkey and Russia. Whether the United States could go into business in that way is a question. Perhaps it could not. But we own a lot of wheat and cotton which we would like to get rid of. We have exchanged wheat for coffee with Brazil. Perhaps the government might buy up the surpluses and trade them for goods which are not produced in this country.

Gardening for the Jobless

Plots of land have been set aside in many Eastern cities for the use of unemployed persons. These men will work off many grouches against life with the strokes of the hoe. They will be happier fighting bugs, pests and weeds, than they were at home cursing the social system and the mistakes of industry and finance.

The industrious man who can stand a period of unemployment without losing his nerve, has much of the soldier spirit in him. Walking the streets in search for work until the feet ache has broken the heart of many a good man. Others do not take it seriously enough, and they are perfectly willing to live on public help so long as it is offered, until the charity begins to look more pleasant than real work.

Giving a man a garden plot to till helps the industrious one keep his poise of mind, and it prevents the indolent one from losing the habit of toil. Anyone who offers the use of land for this purpose in a town where many people are idle, performs an act of charity and public spirit.

Brief Mention for a Useless Performance

This young Rumanian girl with the unpronounceable name, who made a parachute jump from a plane 24,000 feet above the Sacramento valley, seems to deserve brief mention for the utter uselessness of her performance.

Suppose it shall be determined that her jump was a world's record—what of it?

It was proved long ago that a person with a parachute can jump out of a plane at any ordinary altitude and come safely to earth. What does it prove to go on increasing the altitude?

Theoretically, there is no reason why a parachute drop can not be made safely from a height of 50,000 feet, if there were any way of getting up so high. But there is no need for any one to try to prove the theory correct.

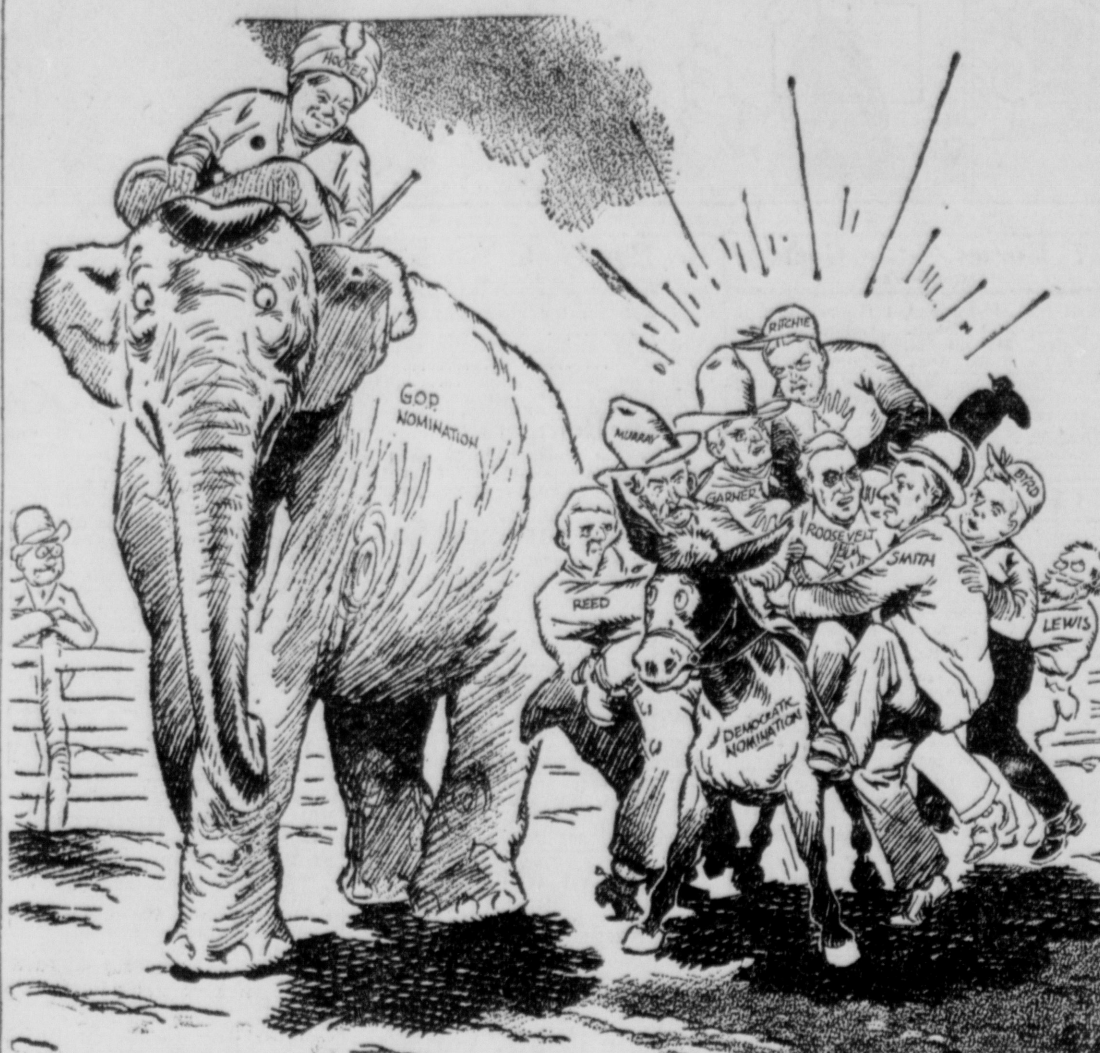

It would be vastly more to the point for some person to demonstrate a parachute which is effective at 100 feet, for it is at low altitudes that parachutes generally are most desperately needed.

Just a Whimsy

Rugged individualism has just received a peculiar setback from the courts of the sovereign state of Kentucky, where a citizen has been sentenced to a year's imprisonment for shooting himself. The gentleman shot himself in the leg, for reasons not named in the press dispatches, in the course of a scuffle in a dance hall. It might have been himself he was scuffling with—he may even have been dancing with himself. At any rate, what he did was entirely personal, to all appearances—and while his act was unquestionably in poor taste and not to be generally recommended, it is hard to understand why the courts should adopt such a discouraging attitude. The gentleman's reasons for shooting himself were undoubtedly susceptible to criticism, but they were his own reasons and it was his own leg that he shot.

This type of individualism is innocent by comparison with some others which the law permits—and certainly it was rugged enough.

THE WAY IT IS WITH THEM

"Oh! Congressman! Do something quick!"

The frantic constituent cried.

"You promised us farmers at Teakettle Creek That you'd be our friend and our guide."

"Be patient, dear Brother," the Congressman said,

"I'll help out the boys in your section;

But at present I find I must center my mind

On securing my own re-election."

"Oh! Congressman, why don't you stand by my side?"

The taxpayer asked, with a moan.

"I feel like a sucker that's been for a ride—

You fellows won't let me alone."

"Be easy, old fellow," the Solon returned,

"Don't fret about trifling expenses;

Fill your heart with good cheer, for at this time of year

A statesman must build up his fences."

"Oh! Congressman, can't you get busy for once?"

The business man wailed in alarm.

"You are raising the deuce, with these back-scratching stunts

With the market, the mill and the farm."

"Just be calm, my dear friend," was the soothing reply,

"I know these are troubled conditions,

But I'm also aware that I've got to take care

Of my praiseworthy private ambitions."

"Oh! Congressman, why don't you get something done?"

The public exclaimed in dismay.

"From the dawn's early light to the set of the sun

Our savings are melting away."

"Be patient, dear friends," was the kindly response,

"You are somewhat excited, I see;

I'll attend to you soon, maybe early in June,

But now, I must look after me!"

SUCH IS FAME

Maybe it was little Jack Garner who pulled out that plum. The final test of will power is a tooth that stops hurting a few hours before your appointment with the dentist.

Still, Mr. Roosevelt's concern for the forgotten little fellows may have been an appeal for the midwest vote.

Most Americans are descended from the English, but you don't realize how far until you see such signs as "Te Little Eatle Shoppe."

YOU CAN'T ASK A MAN HOW RICH HE IS, BUT YOU CAN ASK HIS OPINION OF ESTATE TAXES.

The greatest deflation so far is in the stature of "big men." Government efforts to mend matters teach us that a man once struck by lightning can't be calmed by offers of sick candy when it's thundering.

If a cop shoots too soon, he is a brutal killer; if he doesn't, he was a brave and efficient officer.

AMERICANISM: Tolerating an element that refuses to work for a living; wondering why there are so many criminals.

Self-determination as it works: Changing a few big prosperous nations into a lot of little ones impoverished by tariff walls. What scores people most is the discovery that the world's leaders weren't the ones who made it go around, after all.

OF COURSE WOMEN HAVE GREATER ENDURANCE. WHO EVER SAW A MAN WHO COULD STAND AT A PHONE AND TALK FOR AN HOUR?

If war maims our youth, that is a brutal crime; if the movies pollute their minds, that is freedom or something.

It might be worse. America might be getting all its folly deserves.

Anyway, we have learned that the ability to wise-crack isn't proof of greatness.

The hard job of Big Men is to straighten out the mess without surrendering any of their advantages.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

SOUND AND UNSOUND LOW PRICES

From time to time, in these articles, I have spoken of high wages, short hours, low prices and large output as the four cornerstones of a sound and stable economic future for America. Yesterday I spoke of the importance of restoring our fallen price level to the 1925 level.

To some readers there may seem an inconsistency here. Let me explain if I can why there is no inconsistency between these seemingly contradictory statements about prices.

There are sound low prices and there are unsound low prices.

The unsound low prices are those low commodity and security prices brought about by the inefficiency, maladjustment, and dislocation of the financial and economic order in general.

The sound low prices are those low retail prices that are brought about by superlatively efficient management of production and distribution at a time when the financial and economic order is also functioning with reasonable efficiency and not in the grip of maladjustment and dislocation.

When, in a time of prosperity, superior management of production and distribution succeeds in progressively lowering the retail price of products the volume of business done expands.

If in normal times superior management of production and distribution can progressively reduce the price of an automobile from $1000 to $500 it is obvious that more people will be able to buy the automobile and the industry producing it will expand. The present tumble of prices of commodities and securities is, however, but a by-product of the gross maladjustments of our financial and economic order.

Prices lowered in this manner do not spell business expansion when accompanied by drastic reductions of wages, salaries, and incomes generally, by the tightening of credit, and by a drastic increase in the debt and tax burden.

It is the obligation of business and political statesmanship so to handle the problem of credit and so to guide our monetary policy that we get back to, say, the 1925 price level, and then we can buckle down to the job afresh of heading off our economic order towards high wages, low prices, short hours, and large total output as the four fruits of superior management.

Our Children

By Angela Patri

ALL ALIKE

"I try to treat my children all alike but they complain and cry and make me so unhappy that I don't know what to do. I'm sure no mother tries harder to be fair with her children than I do."

Justice, fairness, is not what children are looking for. No two children are alike, consequently no two children need the same things. Nor do they flourish under the same treatment.

Did you ever see the family who were dressed exactly alike so that there could be no accusation of favoritism laid against the mother? Wasn't it pitiful? No hat ever suited two heads equally well. No color ever suited two skins with equal perfection. Only one child, perhaps not even one, was suited. It would have been better to have risked the charge of favoritism than to have made all the children unhappy.

"I sent Helen to the old college so the others will have to go too. The whole family ought to have the same opportunity. I don't believe in making fish of one and flesh of the other."

Well and good. But is there to be no choice of colleges? Is each child to have the same training and education regardless of his gifts, tastes and abilities? No family of children ever born were equally or similarly endowed. To send them all to the same college and so make their education a family affair is to run a big risk. None of them may be suited. Or if even one of them is misplaced, what a loss.

"No, I give them all the same amount. I know that Ella is older than Tessie but there ought not to be any difference between sisters." Ella was seventeen and Tessie was twelve. These is a wide span between those two ages, wider than the years would indicate. The older girl was ready for college yet she had the same allowance as her sister in the graded school. That was depriving the older girl of the experience she needed to fit her for self control in college. Such short sighted policy can end in but one way, antagonism between the children. The dead level idea brings out resentment every time. "If it weren't for my sister, or my mother, I could have this. I could do that. I wish he was some place else out of my way."

That is hardly the spirit that the mother and father hoped to inspire, but it is often at work in families where this idea has been accepted.

"But I have seen too much of the other thing. One child favored beyond all the others. Or one child made to shoulder all the unpleasant duties, carrying the heavy end of the burden every time."

Even so, it is not necessary to go to the other extreme and reduce the family to a dead level treatment as though they were a bundle of kindling to be cut to fit the basket. The beauty of a family group, the main interest, lies in their individual differences. Anything that tends to wipe them out is not good. Anything that tends to bring out the best in each, to strengthen the good in each, to heighten the beauty in each, is what we are after in school and in home.

Let go of justice and exercise loving intelligence. (Copyright, 1932, The Bell Syn., Inc.) TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY

SUBS IN U. S. WATERS

On May 25, 1918, German submarines arrived in American waters and began to raid shipping within a few hundred miles of the principal Atlantic ports. Precautions were taken at once to guard against the possibility of air raids on the coast.

The War Department in Washington announced that the first shipment of American planes had arrived in France and were being used in a training camp back of the lines.

Operations on the western front were of a purely local nature. A new German major offensive was expected at any moment.

German troops continued their advance into the Ukraine, occupying important towns and seizing large quantities of food supplies.

British successes against Turkish forces continued, and English officers reported that the morale of the Turk soldiers was beginning to break.
